Carter urges steel firms to roll back price hikes

WASHINGTON (AP) — President-elect Jimmy Carter says he has "sent word" to the nation's steel producers, urging them to reverse recent price hikes to avoid giving the oil-exporting countries an excuse to raise petroleum prices.

But Carter says the steelmakers were noncommittal in their responses.

Carter said Monday that senators and House members were conveying his message to the companies that higher steel prices will have a severe impact on inflation around the world.

In an interview with CBS anchorman Walter Cronkite, Carter said that if steel "prices are going up, I think it would be a good excuse for Iran and other nations to say, 'Well, if you increase steel prices in the middle of our oil meetings, then it's legitimate for us to raise our oil prices.'"

Iran and other members of the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries, the oil cartel, are meeting in December to discuss an increase in oil prices. OPEC has defended previous price hikes by pointing to higher costs of manufactured goods made in oil-importing countries.

In the wake of the decision Monday by U.S. Steel, the nation's largest steel producer, Bethlehem Steel and Republic Steel to make the price hike virtually industry-wide, U.S. economists were predicting the higher cost of steel is likely to push up prices for a wide variety of consumer goods in the months ahead.

Carter said during his campaign that he would ask for stand-by authority to impose wage and price controls, although he said he didn't think they would be used. However, some economists have said that even the possibility of price controls may be causing worried businessmen to push through price increases they might otherwise wait on.

Meanwhile, Jerry Jasinowski, head of the economic policy group in Carter's transition staff, declined to speculate whether the steel companies are seeking to take advantage of the transition period between the outgoing Ford administration and the incoming Carter administration in pushing through their price hikes.

"At this point we are still trying to assess the facts," Jasinowski said. "We should know more in a couple of days." He said he was preparing a report for Carter on the price move.

The increases, which are generally 6 per cent on flat-rolled steel, the kind used in autos and appliances, are effective Wednesday.

The administration lacks authority to roll back price increases, and the investigation is intended simply to force the companies to justify their action. The steel producers that have announced price hikes will be asked to submit information to the council on prices, costs, demand and profits, a council spokesman said.

One council staff member said the decision to investigate the price hikes resulted partly from concern over the timing of the increase, which was started by National Steel Corp. last Wednesday.

"We couldn't look the other way on this one; it just didn't make sense," he said Monday.

Officials said the reason the price increases don't make sense to the council is that the hikes come in the face of generally slack demand. Steelmakers had retreated from an earlier announced price increase in August because the market wouldn't support the higher prices.

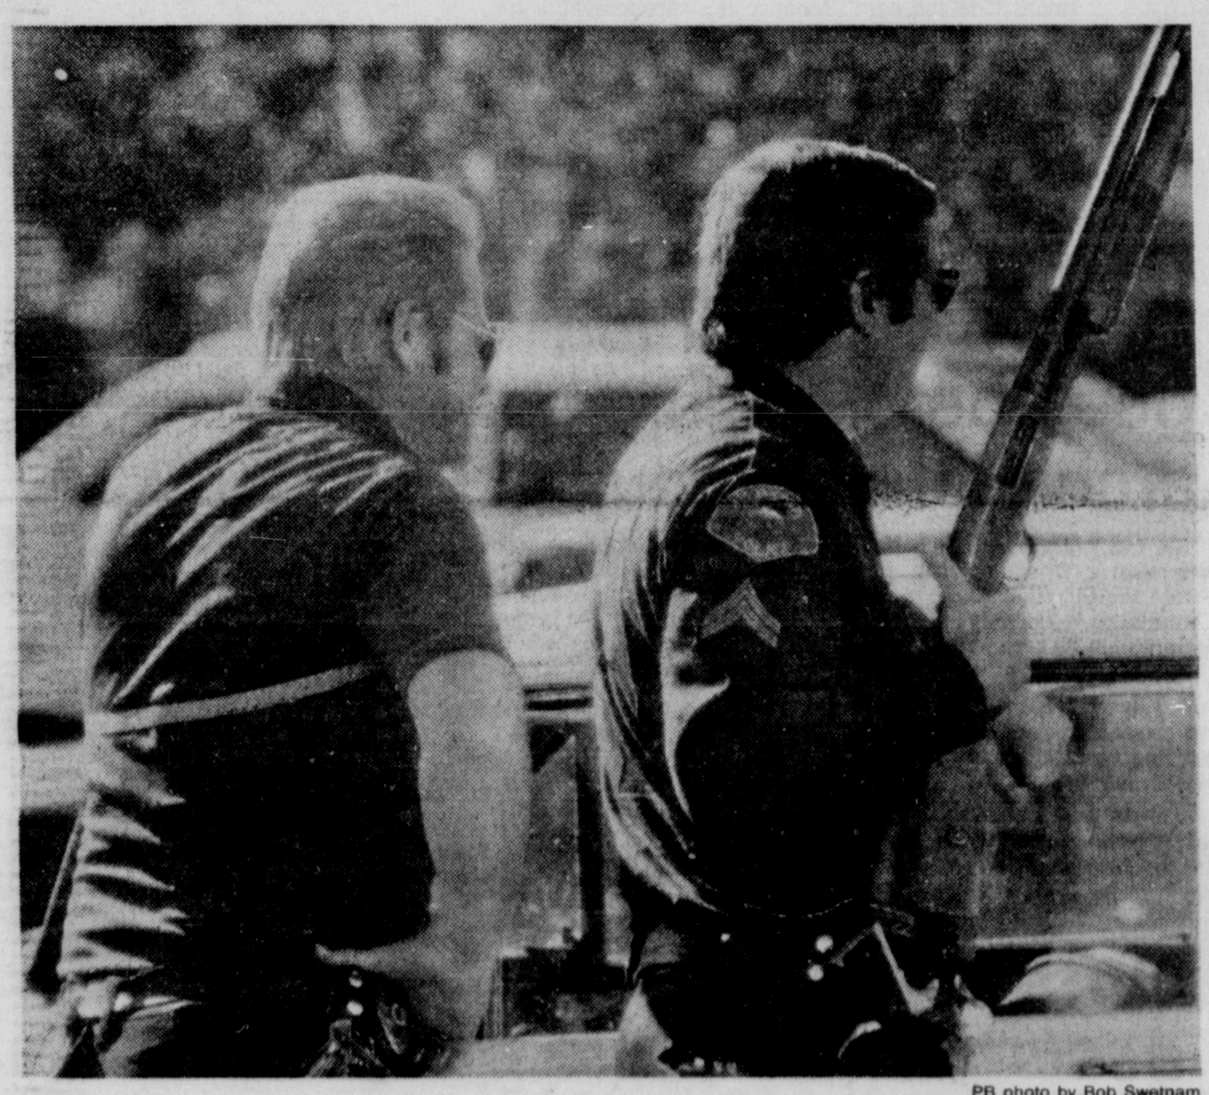

A steel industry magazine, Iron Age, reported Monday that demand for steel had increased for January shipments, after declining six consecutive months. The article, written before the new price increases were announced, said that although the demand probably wouldn't support price increases, the steel companies might try to push them through anyway.

WAITING FOR SURRENDER

Pomona police officers Roby Stephens and Jeffrey Dye stand beside their car awaiting the surrender of a Montclair man accused of murdering his estranged wife in Pomona. The suspect, identified as Eugene Rodgers, eventually shot himself after refusing to surrender.

Shot ends 4-hour standoff with lawmen at his Montclair home

A Montclair man accused of slaying his wife early today shot himself to death shortly before noon after refusing to surrender to Montclair and Pomona police who surrounded his Montclair home for nearly four hours.

Police found the body of Eugene Rodgers, about 50, in a chair in the master bedroom with a rifle cradled in his lap. The home is at 9834 Surrey Ave. Paramedics said Mr. Rodgers apparently shot himself with a .22 caliber, semi-automatic rifle. This was the same rifle believed used in the slaying of his wife, Johnny, about 40, at her daughter's home in Pomona, shortly before 7 a.m.

Montclair Police Captain Ed Duran and Don Whip said they were talking on the telephone with Mr. Rodgers just before he shot himself. Duran said that Rodgers told them he was going to give himself up and come outside in about 10 minutes. However, Duran said Rodgers suddenly changed his mind and said he was going to kill himself.

Duran said Rodgers told them, "When you hear the shot, you will know I'm gone." Montclair officer Terry Bellam, stationed across the street and armed with a shotgun, said he heard a pop and was told to enter the house first because he was wearing a bullet-proof vest. Bellam opened the door and entered the home to find the body in the bedroom.

Paramedics rushed into the home but couldn't revive the suspect.

Earlier the suspect rejected the attempts of his father, J.D. Rodgers, and Whip to persuade him to surrender. Both the senior Rodgers and Whip entered the house and talked unsuccessfully to Rodgers. They said they found him sitting on a sofa with the rifle to his chin.

Mrs. Rodgers was found shot to death inside the home of one of the couple's daughters at 1170 S. Gibbs St. in Pomona. The woman was pronounced dead at the scene.

Police said that after the shooting, Rodgers drove to his own home in Montclair where he refused to leave. It was at that point that the standoff began.

The residence is a single-story frame home in a pleasant, middle-class section of Montclair. The scene, with police ringing the house and many police cars parked nearby, seemed out of place.

Officers from both Montclair and Pomona quickly surrounded the house after he refused to leave. Officers, numbering between 10 and 15 in uniform and several others in plainclothes, maintained a low profile, but were armed heavily.

Up until shortly before 11 a.m., no shots had been fired either by police, or from inside the house. No attempts had been made to flush Rodgers from the house.

Acquaintances of the family told reporters that the recent history of the Rodgers' marriage had been marked by discord and many disputes. They said that Mrs. Rodgers said she planned to go to Las Vegas with one of her daughters and file for divorce. [illegible] said that Rodgers had told her he would kill her, the daughter and himself if she attempted to do so.

Rodgers was unemployed, they said, mainly because of a heart attack he suffered six or eight months ago.

Bare local call toll charge plan

SEATTLE (AP) — The American Telephone & Telegraph Co. is formulating plans to apply a system of toll charges to all local phone calls nationwide by 1980, a published report said today.

In a copyright article, the Seattle Post-Intelligencer said the phone company "has quietly moved through the initial stages" of the plan to eliminate unlimited local calls allowed under the flat-rate system in many areas.

The newspaper reported that "secret" AT&T documents said the flat-rate system would be replaced with a unit-pricing method that would mean a charge for each call, taking into account the length of the call and distance between stations.

The newspaper did not say how it obtained the reported 100 pages of documents addressed to AT&T subsidiaries, which it said describe the plan as "Usage Sensitive Pricing" (USP).

The documents claim the new system is needed to increase revenues, since the flat-rate system causes increasing costs but does not generate increased revenue, the newspaper said.

An AT&T spokesman in New York said today that it was "no secret" that AT&T has "publicly discussed the need to move towards cost-related pricing for its services...."

"In support of this publicly enunciated position, plans have been put together which explore the various possibilities with the aim of creating a fair pricing structure...," said Lawrence Garfinkel, director of the firm's rates and tariffs planning department.

Garfinkel said it would be up to local telephone companies and state commissions to "determine the appropriateness of the plans and the pace at which they will be introduced in their state.

"Our objective is still to keep service available to all at the lowest possible cost and in the inflationary climate we face this is one alternative to achieve this goal."

The Post-Intelligencer said the plan would require that records be kept on every call made by AT&T customers, but the newspaper said a telephone company source told it that a major problem might be privacy.

The documents state that the idea was formulated in 1970 by an AT&T task force, according to the newspaper, and "the result should be widespread introduction of USP in the 1978-1980 time frame."

G.T. unaware of plan

A General Telephone representative said today that he is not aware of anything in the works for his firm to implement a system of toll charges to all local phone calls similar to the American Telephone & Telegraph Co. plan disclosed in Seattle.

Rick Williams, public information representative, checked with corporate headquarters at Santa Monica and reported that officials there were not aware of any plans for General Telephon to change its rate system.

Williams said that for AT&T and a subsidiary, Pacific Telephone, to set up such a rate system would require FCC permission as well as commission approval in each state served by AT&T or a subsidiary.

Containment of S.D. brush fire expected

By VONNE ROBERTSON
PB Staff Writer

Fire officials hope for containment by 6 p.m. today for the 250-acre fire on Mt. Hawkins north of San Dimas.

Two Los Angeles County helicopters began battling the blaze in a rugged and remote area of the Angeles National Forest Monday afternoon after winds started to abate.

The fire which broke out Friday possibly as a result of a smoldering lightning strike some 12 days previous, was considered almost contained late Monday night. Then winds in the canyons increased and a number of hot spots erupted, according to Meridith Howell, fire information officer.

Firefighters from the U.S. Forest Service, California Department of Forestry and Los Angeles County Fire Department worked until 10 p.m. Monday to control the hot spots.

The containment of the fire by late today is contingent upon the winds remaining at 12 to 15 miles per hour, the officials said.

Two minor injuries have been reported among the 200 firefighters.

Because of the rugged terrain, aerial tankers and bulldozers have not been used to combat the fire.

Marines back down, admit KKK presence

CAMP PENDLETON, Calif. (AP) — The Marine Corps has backed off from its initial denial of Ku Klux Klan activity at Camp Pendleton and now says Marines belonging to the KKK probably will be sent elsewhere.

Lt. Col. Dan Brown said Monday that a search of a barracks where black and white Marines battled on Nov. 13 produced a pistol, clubs and a list naming 16 Marines as Ku Klux Klansmen.

He said the items were not found in a room raided by blacks with clubs and screwdrivers who sent six whites to the hospital. The corps also said a 14th black Marine was being questioned in the case.

"Because the KKK organization may be detrimental to human relations plans are being made to transfer some men to other Marine Corps stations. No names will be given in order to protect their privacy," said Lt. Charles Owen, another base spokesman.

He said none of the injured men were on the list of names found in a "wall-to-wall" search of the barracks where the raid occurred.

But Owen said an investigation showed no illegal KKK activity on the base. Its meetings were held in nearby Oceanside, he said, and "membership in the KKK is not prohibited by existing law or regulation."

The KKK allegation was made Friday by Clarence Pendleton Jr., executive director of the Urban League of San Diego, who said he was angry that the Nov. 13 incident was being allowed to appear an unprovoked attack by black troops on whites.

Pendleton said the black Marines believed they were attacking white supremacists, but barged into the wrong room. The Marines have said the white Marines were having an illegal beer party, but whether they will be punished has not been decided. Two of the men remained hospitalized Monday.

So far, eight black Marines have been charged with conspiracy and assault under the Uniform Code of Military Justice. The other six blacks in custody are being held for investigation.

State's holiday highway toll 44

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Deaths on California highways during the Thanksgiving weekend increased by one from last year's record low of 43, the California Highway Patrol says.

The patrol also reported making 2,211 drunken driving arrests during the 102-hour holiday period, compared to 1,930 last year. The holiday period lasted from 6 p.m. Wednesday to midnight Sunday.

Last year's death toll was the lowest since the CHP began keeping records for Thanksgiving holiday weekends in 1963.

There were no other details immediately.

Walter Cavanagh, a Santa Clara pharmacist, is accredited by the Guinness Book of Records as having the world's largest collection of credit cards. A department store was not impressed with his good credit as they turned him down for a card because he had too much outstanding potential credit.

Exchange Alaskan oil with Japan, suggests author

SACRAMENTO (AP) — The best way to handle Alaskan oil for the first months it's available is to exchange it with Japan, says the principal author of a new federal study.

In return, Japan would send the United States oil it buys from the Arabs.

Hundreds of thousands of barrels of oil from Alaska's North Slope are due to start arriving at an Alaskan coastal port in mid-1977.

If a West Coast terminal is built to receive the oil for shipment east, it couldn't be ready for even limited use until sometime in 1978, long after the oil starts flowing.

Nor could a trans-Canadia pipeline or tankers that could carry the oil through the Panama Canal be ready in time, the study says.

The long-overdue report on alternatives to a West Coast tanker terminal is expected to be released publicly in draft form this week by the Federal Energy Administration in Washington, D.C.

Bob Shinn, now a aide to the California Energy Commission's chairman, was chief author of the original draft.

In an interview Monday, he said the 800-page report had no major changes from the draft he submitted. He said it originally was to have been released in September.

"Several alternatives are viable, not the least of which is exchanging oil with Japan," Shinn said.

Exchanging U.S. oil with Japan or any other nation requires authorization from the President.

Standard Oil of Ohio (SOHIO), which wants to build a terminal at Long Beach, would prefer an exchange of its Alaskan oil "value for value" with Arab oil that Japan buys.

Oil from SOHIO's North Slope holdings is scheduled to start arriving at the Alaskan port of Valdez in mid-1977, and amount to 1.2 million barrels a day by mid-1978.

'Junk food' OKd

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The Los Angeles Board of Education will not ban "junk food" from school campuses.

The board decided Monday to let local schools decide whether candy, soft drinks and other snacks can be sold in cafeterias and student stores.

The board voted 6-1 approval of member Diane Watson's motion to avoid "immediate changes in current policies covering sales of candy and beverages."

Controller to quit

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Los Angeles' controller, embroiled in a scandal two years ago over the theft of $3.5 million in city treasury checks, will not seek a another four-year term in his $33,000-a-year job.

Charles Navarro announced his decision Monday, citing age and saying he and his wife want to "enjoy the fruits of our labors."

Navarro will be 73 in January.

'Alphabet Bomber'

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The man accused of being the so-called "Alphabet Bomber" has linked himself with the murder of a teenager outside the home of the late actress Sharon Tate on the night she and three friends were killed by Charles Manson cult members.

Jury selection began Monday in a new sanity trial for Muharem Kurbegovic on charges stemming from an August 1974 explosion that killed three persons at Los Angeles International Aiport.

Yellow Cab

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Inability to find a new insurance carrier may stall Yellow Cab operations in seven major cities in California and Nevada.

Yellow Cab President Don Zientara said Monday that the company has been unable to arrange for insurance after its present policy expires at midnight tonight.

The cities facing the possible Yellow Cab shutdown are Los Angeles, San Francisco, Oakland, San Jose, San Diego and Oceanside.

Wendy's trial

OAKLAND, Calif. (AP) — Wendy Yoshimura used at least five aliases and armed herself with an arsenal of firearms during her 3½-year life on the run with some of America's most wanted fugitives, says the prosecutor in her weapons possession trial.

"Her conduct speaks louder than words ever could," Jeff Horner said in his opening statement Monday.

Defense lawyer James Larson, who concedes that the 33year-old defendant fled prosecution and lived with fugitives in the terrorist underground, was to make his opening statement today.

NASA waits for messages from other worlds

DALLAS (AP) — The National Aeronautics and Space Administration is planning to wait for messages from other worlds to find us rather than sending out signals to locate extra-terrestrial life, an engineer for the Jet Propulsion Laboratory says.

Bob Edelson of Pasadena, Calif., is one of several engineers and deep space scientists who will begin listening for possible communications from other worlds in the fall of 1978.

Speaking at the National Telecommunications Conference in Dallas Monday, Edelson said today's technology is capable of sending messages into deep space but a reply, should one be sent, could take 24,000 years. Therefore, the decision by the NASA is to keep quiet and listen.

"You have to be a bit presumptuous in this field," Edelson admitted. "But we have to assume that any signals we pick up were sent for detection."

He said that "it is likely that communication between different species exists today." He added that "lifesights," or stars suspected of harboring the elements necessary to sustain life, have existed for some 5 billion years before our sun was born.

The space probes will be conducted by Ames Research Center in Mountainview, Calif., and the Jet Propulsion Laboratory in Pasadena, Calif. Edelson said the search will not include Earth's solar system, which scientists have concluded is almost surely void of life as we know it.

As for life in deep space, the engineer quipped, "About all you can say for sure is you won't find a race of dolphins out there. They have to be able to at least build the right kinds of tools (to transmit earthbound messages)."

The probes will last five years. If no messages have been received by then, Edelson said the program will be reassessed. He added that past probes have yielded nothing.

Asked why he believes the search should continue, Edelson said "Because it's inconceivable to me that of the 7 trillion or more stars in the galaxy, that we're the only ones here."

The annual winter telecommunications conference, which continues through Wednesday, is for the communications branch of the Institute of Electrical and Electronic Engineers.

Griswold's addition goes before Claremont architectural group

The much-discussed 97-unit hotel structure at Griswold's will come before the Claremont Architectural Commission Wednesday at 7:30 p.m. for preliminary review.

Developer Sandy Sanford is asking for approval of the elevations, materials and colors of the proposed building north of the Smorgasbord restaurant.

Sanford will submit sign details and a detailed landscaping plan for the area around the hotel and for all new parking areas at a later time.

The proposed hotel is about 230 feet long, 40 feet high, and ranges from 60 to 75 feet in width.

The new hotel will be comparable to the existing hotel units in design, materials and colors.

Residents living on neighboring streets have protested to the Planning Commission and the City Council about the increased traffic that the new structure will generate.

The council only last Tuesday night approved a conditional use permit for the hotel structure.

Ontario Chamber of Commerce assistant to leave her post

Helen Palmieri will leave the Ontario Chamber of Commerce after 15 years to assume responsibilities as executive officer for the Ontario-Upland-Chino Board of Realtors.

Mrs. Palmieri, assistant manager of the chamber office, will have her final day there on Dec. 15 before taking over the new position Jan. 1 at the West End Realty office.

The Friends of the Ontario International Airport will sponsor a farewell dedication party Thursday night from 6 to 8 at the Thomas Winery, 8916 Footill Blvd., Cucamonga. The $5 tab will include refreshments, a buffet and a small contribution to an appreciation gift for Mrs. Palmieri.

Mrs. Palmieri was notified that she had been selected for the new position by Dan Noonan, president of the Ontario-Upland-Chino Board of Realtors on Nov. 1. Although saddened about leaving the chamber after so many years, she admitted being excited about the new challenge.

Prior to joining the chamber as office manager, she was executive secretary for the president of Lincoln National Bank in Chicago, Ill. for seven years.

"And between that time and this time I raised three children," she said.

She was appointed assistant manager of the chamber two years ago and in that position helped Berger Nielsen, executive vice president and manager, in various promotional activities. She has been executive director of the Ontario 500 Festival Association since 1970 and also liasion to the Friends of the Ontario airport.

"Every day is so different in this place," Mrs. Palmieri said of her years with the chamber.

Several events stand out in her mind as unusual or amusing.

"During the floods in late 1968 and 1969, the Civil Defense Department had a warning relay team. Berger Nielsen was the first to be notified and he in turn would notify everyone else. When the floods came, they couldn't find him so they called me at home.

"In my excitement I couldn't remember who was to be called next," she chuckled now. "So I came rushing, if you could call it that, down to the office through the flooded street to get the list.

"They threw out the warning relay idea shortly afterwards," she said, smiling.

The chamber office is the most frequently contacted location for information pertaining to the region. This has led to several interesting letters of inquiry.

In 1970, one woman wrote asking the location of the nearest lighthouse and the address of the lighthouse visitors' bureau for the area.

A elementary age student once requested information on the City of Ontario, but made it a point to let chamber officials know that she preferred doing a school project on Disneyland, but regretfully her teacher didn't agree. During the time the speedway was closed down, Mrs. Palmieri received a letter from Poland written in Polish.

"I don't understand a word of Polish, so I guessed at what they wanted and sent them a sticker and a brochure on the speedway," she recalled. "Shortly after I was flooded with about 300 letters from the same town, hand-written and with the exact wording of the first letter. And I still didn't know what it said!

"My first thought was oh, what have I started! Each letter was hand-written and they must have copied the first one word for word.

"They sent me Czechoslavakian and Polish stamps in appreciation. I guess they thought I collected them."

She convinced a friend who would be traveling through Europe and stopping off at this particular town to take a stack of posters and brochures to the townsfolk. She never found out if any of the natives there ever visited the speedway.

During her years with the chamber, she has witnessed many changes in the town and feels that most of them have been for the betterment of the total community.

HELEN PALMIERI

"I saw the Euclid Avenue parkway transformed from a carnival at Christmas to the beautiful holiday scene it now is," she remembered. "Some people aren't aware that a carnival was once staged on the parkway during the holiday season. People were so horrified that they'd have a carnival at Christmas that it prompted the organizing for the scenes that are out there now."

She has also worked closely with the Ontario Bicentennial Commission and the Ontario 500 Festival Association promotions.

"I think probably the best part of working at the chamber has been all the nice people I've met through both the chamber and the festival association. It amazes me how many people that are so busy can always find time to donate their help," Mrs. Palmieri said.

Common Market wants talks with Carter

Can't work out economic ills unless 9 nations know his plans

THE HAGUE, The Netherlands (AP) — The leaders of the European Common Market nations decided today to seek contact with President-elect Jimmy Carter as soon as possible to deal with pressing economic problems.

Spokesmen said no precise formula for arranging the talks had yet been agreed upon by the nine prime ministers and presidents holding a closed door summit here. Nor was it clear whether they wanted the talks before Carter's inauguration on Jan. 20.

The European leaders feel they cannot work out ways to deal with their own wobbly economies until they know Carter's economic plans and until the oil-exporting countries decide how much they are going to raise the price of crude oil.

Because of this, the nine Common Market countries generally agree that the so-called North-South conference between the industrial and developing countries, scheduled to open Dec. 15 in Paris, should be postponed, Foreign Minister Garrett Fitzgerald of Ireland told reporters Monday after the first day of a two-day meeting of Common Market presidents and prime ministers.

The participants in the Paris talks are the United States, seven other industrialized countries and 19 developing nations. The Third World nations hope to obtain help with their foreign debt burden and guaranteed prices for their raw materials as the first step toward a new world economic system. But there has been no progress in a year of technical-level negotiations.

"It makes absolutely no sense to push ahead" when U.S. policies may change after the inauguration of Carter on Jan. 20, West German Chancellor Helmut Schmidt told a news conference.

Fitzgerald said the European leaders favor a delay until February or March.

There have been rumors that the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries (OPEC) might delay its price-raising meeting scheduled for Dec. 15 until after the start of the North-South conference to see if the industrialized world offered the poor countries any concessions. But the pressure from Iran, Iraq, Venezuela and some other oil countries for a price increase is so great that a long delay seems unlikely.

The Middle East Economic Survey said the "reshuffling of dates is a reflection of the intricate poker game now being played between the industrialized nations and the OPEC-Third World grouping, neither of which wants to show its cards until it has seen the other's hand."

OPEC is expected to raise prices of crude oil between 5 and 15 per cent. The present basic price is $11.51 per barrel.

The Common Market conference was told Monday that Western Europe's economy has been stagnating for several months and that the situation will probably get worse when the price of oil goes up. A 10 per cent increase would cost the Common Market $4.9 billion next year.

French sources said President Valery Giscard d'Estaing suggested that all Common Market countries set ceilings on oil imports. He also reportedly recalled that former President Nixon pledged in 1973 to make the United States independent of oil imports in five years, but that the United States instead is importing more and more oil.

High court rules against policeman who shot three

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court today ruled against an Ohio policeman who was ordered by a jury to pay more than $800,000 to the families of two men he shot and killed and to a third man who was paralyzed by the officer's bullet.

In an unsigned opinion, the justices said they had changed their minds and had decided not to hear Columbus police officer Raymond Belcher's appeal of a lower court decision.

Belcher had challenged the decision by the U.S. Circuit Court in Cincinnati which upheld the jury verdict in trial court.

The case stemmed from a barroom brawl in Jimmy's Cafe in Columbus in 1971.

Belcher was at the cafe while off duty and out of uniform when a scuffle broke out. He intervened and shot and killed Robert Ruff and Michael Noe. He also shot Casey Stengel who was permanently paralyzed as a result of the wound.

Stengel and the survivors of the dead men filed suit against Belcher under a federal civil rights law which provides damages for persons whose civil rights are violated by state officials.

The jury decided that Belcher must must pay $831,000 in damages.

Belcher appealed on grounds he was not acting as an official at the time he shot the three men.

The justices earlier had agreed to hear the case. But they said, "We have concluded that the writ (scheduling the case for a hearing) should be dismissed as improvidently granted."

The justices said they have determined from a review of the record that there was substantial evidence Belcher was acting in an official capacity.

Among other things, Belcher was granted official leave because of his injuries in the incident, and a local board of inquiry concluded that his "actions were in the line of duty."

The court said these facts were not available to them at the time they agreed to hear the case.

How Jody Powell to handle press

AMERICUS, Ga. (AP) — Jody Powell, the press secretary for President-elect Jimmy Carter, says he plans to let White House reporters know when he thinks their stories are wrong or unfair.

He says if criticism intimidates the reporters, "they're in the wrong business."

Powell, who has never been in the news business, also says he'll use his position as a Carter insider to prevent staff competition from getting out of hand and to assure that Carter receives more than one point of view on controversial issues.

Powell said in an interview that he does not intend to let the White House press corps run over him, but he claims he is confident he will be able to steer clear of the acrimony and bitterness that poisoned press relations over portions of the last three administrations.

Asked if he is thin-skinned, Powell replied: "I don't think so. In terms of things that relate to me personally I really don't give much of a damn. I'm fairly argumentative and combative mostly because I'm not thin-skinned and don't take things personally.

"Personally, I enjoy a good give-and-take over differences of opinion. I just don't come away from it with any personal feeling whatsoever. It's a worthwhile sort of exchange as far as I am concerned. It clears the air. It gets everybody's point of view out in the open."

Powell said that if he responded to every story that struck him as unfair or incorrect, "I wouldn't have time to do anything else."

Asked if he sees his role as protective of Carter's interests, he described the president-elect as well able to defend himself.

But Powell says he used to keep a role of dimes strapped to the steering column of his car when Carter was governor so he always had telephone change ready to call in and respond to criticism against his man that might be aired on a popular Atlanta radio talk show.

"I think that if there is something written or said that is wrong or that in my opinion is an unfair interpretation of what went on, I think I have a responsibility to point it out," Powell said.

"And I frankly feel that the people who are charged with covering a candidate or a politician have a responsibility to listen and not to feel personally affronted by the fact that I might disagree with what they wrote. I think if a reporter is going to be intimidated by the fact that I complain about a story — just the simple fact that I complain about it and I disagree with it — then they're in the wrong business."

Powell said he will retain his role as a close personal adviser to Carter as well as being press secretary. He said this should give him the vantage point to spot more easily "not a malicious but just a normal run-of-the-mill oversimplification or misinterpretation."

He said this will be particularly true "when reporters start trying to tell the American people why somebody did something, which is one of the most dangerous tasks on earth, I guess."

Powell said he sees his adviser's role as oriented more toward politics than toward policy. And he said he defines that as the politics of public relations and the politics of making sure the president has the information he needs to do his job.

Powell, 33, is a native of Vienna, Ga., some 30 miles from Plains. Powell says he first became interested in Carter as a politician because "he was so different from the majority of politicians in our part of the state."

During the campaign for the White House, Carter told reporters that Powell is virtually his closest adviser and is closer to him personally than anyone outside his family.

Chained-up kidnaping victim nearly freezes

STATE COLLEGE, Pa. (AP) — A woman who was abducted and chained in an unheated house in near-zero weather for up to 24 hours was freed apparently unharmed after her father paid a "substantial" ransom, the FBI said.

Two men from a motorcycle shop were arrested soon after the rescue Monday night.

Police and FBI agents rushed to an abandoned house at an old limestone quarry shortly after a ransom was delivered by the woman's father. They found Elizabeth Ann Ferringer, 23, in the basement.

She had been chained in an upright position, agents said. The temperature inside the house was near zero.

"She probably would have frozen to death if she hadn't been found," said Neil J. Welch, special agent in charge of the Philadelphia FBI office.

Shortly after Mrs. Ferringer was released, FBI agents took two Centre County brothers into custody. Welsh identified them as Gary R. Young, 33, a motorcycle shop owner from Pennsylvania Furnace, and George K. Young, 23, an employe in the shop, from Pine Grove Mills.

The FBI said they would be arraigned today before a U.S. magistrate on charges stemming from the abduction. Agents said specific charges would be determined by U.S. Atty. John Cottone.

Mrs. Ferringer and her husband had been visiting her parents over the holiday weekend when she was abducted from their home by two gunmen Sunday night, Welch said.

The abductors tied up the mother and left her in a bedroom. Then they bound and gagged Mrs. Ferringer before leading her away. No other family members were at home at the time, the FBI said.

Welch said the kidnapers demanded the ransom from Mrs. Ferringer's father, Don C. Meyer, owner of the "Autoport Restaurant."

Justice asked to delay execution

WASHINGTON (AP) — A court-appointed attorney today asked Supreme Court Justice Lewis F. Powell Jr. to delay the execution of a convicted Texas murderer who does not want his scheduled Dec. 10 death postponed.

Attorney J. E. Abernathy asked Powell to delay the execution of Robert Excell White until a formal appeal can be made. There was no indication as to when Powell, who handles matters from the Fifth U.S. Circuit Court for the high court, will decide on Abernathy's request.

In a Nov. 23 letter to the Supreme Court clerk, White said: "Mr. Abernathy is acting against my express instructions and desire. I explicitly told him that I did not wish any federal appeal of any sort whatsoever."

White's appeal bears a striking similarity to the case of convicted Utah murderer Gary Mark Gilmore. Both men have asked the courts not to interfere with their scheduled executions.

No one has been executed in the United States since 1967.

White, sentenced to die in the electric chair for the murders of three persons during a 1974 grocery story robbery in Collin County, Tex., said in his letter: "I have been confined in a death row cell for over two years. I have had plenty of time to consider my particular situation.

"I am mentally prepared to accept the judgment of sentence imposed upon me ... Any delay now will only inflict needless mental hardship on me."

Quake victims refuse to leave homes

VAN, Turkey (AP) — Many homeless earthquake victims in eastern Turkey are refusing to leave their devastated villages "but the winter will eventually force them all down" from the mountains, a relief officer says.

An estimated 40,000 persons lost their homes in the quake last Wednesday, and four tent cities are being set up to give some of them shelter. Others are housed temporarily in schools and public buildings.

With the temperature below freezing and heavy snows left by a blizzard Sunday, Tayar Hindistan of the Turkish Red Crescent reported Monday that many villagers would not leave because of their farm animals.

Before the quake and the blizzard took their tolls, farmers in the area had an estimated one million head of cattle and sheep, government officials said. They said the government was considering buying the cattle from the homeless so the owners would go to refugee centers.

Forty U.S. Air Force cargo planes have flown in 600 tons of relief supplies, Commerce Secretary Elliot Richardson reported during a visit to Ankara Monday. A World Health Organization representative, Cancetto Gautuzzo, said more medical supplies are needed but that "otherwise the supply situation seems under control and adequate."

Transition staff salaries lower than law allows

WASHINGTON (AP) — The top members of President-elect Jimmy Carter's transition staff are drawing federal salaries of $552 a week, about $210 a week less than the law allows.

Carter himself is drawing no pay for the transition, and neither are Jack H. Watson Jr., transition coordinator, and Stuart Eizenstat, Carter's director of policy development and agency liaison, a transition spokesman said Monday.

A new law allots an incoming president $2 million to pay the expenses of assembling a staff and preparing to take office.

The law authorizes maximum salaries at the top civil service level of $39,600 a year, or $762 a week. But members of Carter's top staff are being paid at an annual rate of $28,725, or $552 a week.

The transition spokesman said the salaries were being kept down in order to keep within the $2 million budget.

The General Services Administration made public an incomplete salary list for 164 Carter workers on Monday.

The minimum salary was $8,316 annually, or $160 a week.

The transition spokesman said the staff already has been expanded to 210, and more were expected.

Drawing $552 a week were: Hamilton Jordan, the chief talent scout; Landon Butler, an assistant in the personnel advisory group; Jody Powell, Carter's press secretary; Madeline MacBean, Mrs. Carter's transition director; and Barbara Blum, director of transition operations.

Also, Greg Schneiders, Carter's appointments secretary; Walter V. Kallaur, administrative officer of the transiton; Michael S. Berman, top aide to Vice President-elect Walter F. Mondale; and Frank Moore, congressional liaison.

Youth threatens woman in home

A Pomona woman told police late Monday afternoon that a youth slipped into her home, threatened her with a 4-inch screwdriver and fled with jewelry, food and a small amount of cash.

The victim, Mrs. Lucy P. Gonzales, 33, said the youth knocked on the front door and asked for food. When she refused to admit him, he apparently went to the back door, let himself in and confronted her in the dining room. Mrs. Gonzales lives at 729 W. Center St. After placing the loot in a bag, the thief yanked out the telephone wire and fled with the victim's purse.

The intruder was described as black, about 17, 5 feet 10 weighing 160 pounds. He had shoulder-length hair and wore a long-sleeved, flannel shirt and gray trousers.

Robbery indictment

Gerardo Arredondo, a former candidate for the Ontario City Council, has been indicted by the U.S. Attorney's office on charges of bank robbery following his arrest Nov. 10 in Montebello by Montebello police.

Arredondo was arraigned Nov. 11 before a federal magistrate and again Monday following his indictment on charges of robbing a Montebello savings and loan office and the use of a dangerous weapon. He is currently in custody on Terminal Island.

Bullet hits door

A Pomona man reported to police late Monday afternoon that an unidentified person fired a pistol shot into his front door after asking to see a resident at 643 E. Pasadena St.

The victim, Vincent G. Sanchez, 38, said the bullet passed through the screen door and lodged in the wooden door frame. Police later dug it out in an attempt to identify it.

Sanchez said the shooter knocked on the door and asked for "Doug." When Sanchez said he was not there, the man tried to yank open the locked front door and then fired the shot before fleeing.

The man was described as white, 25 to 30, six feet tall and slender. He had red hair and wore a blue pullover sweater and dark trousers.

GODFREY CAMBRIDGE
Dead of heart attack at 43

Actor Godfrey Cambridge dies

BURBANK, Calif. (AP) — Godfrey Cambridge, the black comic-actor who wanted his movie roles to transcend color lines, has died of a heart attack after collapsing on a movie set. He was 43.

Cambridge collapsed Monday night while playing the role of Ugandan dictator Idi Amin on the set of the ABC television film "Victory at Entebbe." The movie portrays the daring Israeli commando rescue of hostages at the Entebbe, Uganda, airport last summer.

"Godfrey did two small scenes earlier today and was doing a simple walk-on scene, speaking to the hostages," said producer Bob Gunnette. "The scene was not even begun, Godfrey was waiting for a cue and he collapsed.

"There was absolutely no forewarning, he just went down. I think it was apparent to most of us around that he was gone."

Gunnette said Cambridge had arrived from his home in Ridgefield, Conn., earlier in the day.

The actor was taken to nearby St. Joseph's Hospital, where a team of doctors pronounced him dead on arrival.

Cambridge, rotund during much of his career, was a constant dieter who shed 170 pounds after ballooning to nearly 300 pounds. His weight had caused fluid-retention problems that required hospital treatment in 1972.

"White or black," he once said in an interview, "when I look in a mirror I still see me. "But I've made 'em one concession to white — I add a 'g' to my verbs."

Cambridge was raised in New York's Harlem by parents who emigrated from British Guiana. Graduating from Hofstra College in 1955, he worked as an airplane wing cleaner, judo instructor, maternity hospital ambulence driver, hot rod racer and cab driver, while trying to break into acting.

He got his first role in 1956 as a bartender in an off-Broadway revival for which he earned $15 a week. He won critical acclaim — and an Obie Award for Best Performer of 1961 — for his role in Jean Genet's savage drama about racial hatred, "The Blacks."

Once he had become established in movies by playing black roles, Cambridge insisted on acting parts that depicted him "as a man, rather than as a Negro." He played an Irishman in "The Troublemaker (1964)," a CIA agent in "The President's Analyst (1967)," a gangster in "The Busy Body (1967)," a Jewish cab driver in "Bye, Bye Braverman (1968)," and a white bigot who gets turned into a black man in "Night The Sun Came Out (1969)."

Two years ago, Cambridge and his wife, Audrey, became the first blacks to move into the affluent community of Ridgefield when they bought a $120,000 house there. They became embroiled in disputes with three real estate firms over "luxuries like heat and water" and other repairs he said he had been promised.

After neighbors complained about a fence he built, Cambridge said, "They're doing it to me because I'm black. Let's be frank about it, this place is Ridgefield, Mass."

Cambridge said he left New York City "to find peace and safety in the country," but he told an interviewer last year that he found he needed to carry a gun in Ridgefield as much as he did in Mangattan. He said a youth once tried to run his wife off the road, one of his two teen-aged daughters was threatened and his car was doused with gasoline in his driveway.

But Cambridge said last December that a decision by the Connecticut Real Estate Commission to discipline the three firms changed his views.

"This is the first time I ever considered myself winning anything. It makes me believe a little bit more in the American justice system," he said.

Ontario business workshop

The City of Ontario will hold its second workshop on the master plan for the Central Business District Wednesday night from 7:30 to 10 at the West End YMCA.

The meeting will be held in the Stewart Room of the YMCA, 215 W. C St.

This will be the second workshop to obtain ideas and suggestions from individuals, organizations and businesses on the future design of Ontario's central business district, an area bounded by G Street on the north, Southern Pacific Railroad on the south, Vine Avenue on the west and Sultana Avenue on the east.

Ideas on traffic and circulation, parking, public transportation, street widths, zoning, land use, utilities, street lights, landscaping and other matters of concern will be discussed.

The workshop is sponsored by the Downtown Merchants Association, Ontario's Community Development Citizens Committee and the City of Ontario.

Reception for Slaght

A public reception honoring Pomona Police Chief Richard Slaght will be held Thursday at Orlando's Restaurant in Pomona.

The event, which begins at 5 p.m. and will continue until 7 p.m., is open to the public at no charge.

Slaght, a 24-year veteran of the Pomona force, was appointed police chief by the City Council two months ago. Slaght also held the post temporarily for several months following the retirement of F. P. Wallick last March and prior to the appointment and subsequent firing of James W. Richards in August.

Prothesis for women

Prothesis for women who have had mastectomies will be displayed at the Pomona office of the American Cancer Society, 111 W. Center St., from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. Thursday.

A volunteer will discuss the various types of prosthesis with women. The display is open to the public without charge.

Chaffey reunion

The 1967 graduating class of Chaffey High School is organizing its 10 year reunion.

The next meeting will be held at 209 E. Rosewood Court, Ontario, on Dec. 9 at 8 p.m. Graduates interested in helping are urged to attend.

Cancer lecture

"Bone Cancer" will be the topic of a three-hour lecture to be presented at Pomona Valley Community Hospital on Thursday from 7 to 10 p.m.

Open to all health providers, particularly those in the nursing field, the three-hour presentation is designed to keep nurses abreast of current trends in cancer nursing.

This program is cosponsored by Pomona Valley Community Hospital and the American Cancer Society. Three hours of continuing education credit can be applied for relicensing of registered nurses.

Those interested in attending the lecture should contact Mrs. Ruth McEwen at 623-8715, ext. 1463 for reservations.

League of Women Voters to discuss Expo at forum

By GEORGE MacLAREN
PB Staff Writer

Expo 81 will be the subject of a forum sponsored by the Claremont Civic Association and the League of Women Voters at Taylor Hall, Thursday at 8 p.m.

Forum panelists will include Bill Welsh, Expo 81 vice-president; Eleanor Cohen, Claremont City Council; Berger Nielsen, Ontario Chamber of Commerce president; and Freeman Allen, Sierra Club-Southern California air quality committee chairman.

Mayor Paul Treadwell of Ontario and Tom McClure, Montclair city councilman, also have been invited to participate as panelists.

Civic Association director George Blair will moderate.

Association president Liz Allen said the affair is planned as an informational workshop.

Mrs. Allen said the unavailablity of a draft environmental impact statement until the first week in November "frustrated informed opinion."

She explained that the situation has been remedied because about four copies are making their rounds among interested city officials and citizens.

Mrs. Allen said that the statement was prepared by the Convention and Expositions Divison of the United States Travel Service on the proposed Expo 81, basically for the consideration of a U.S. pavilion at the exposition, and, if approved, for its funding by Congress.

Mrs. Allen quoted Secretary of Commerce Elliott Richardson in his conditional approval as saying that he has serious reservations about the environmental problems, financing, and bonds for purchase of the Ontario Motor Speedway.

Speed reading course

The Upland Chamber of Commerce will sponsor a nine-hour speed reading course as a community service.

The course will be held today, Wednesday and Thursday from 7 to 10 p.m. at Griswold's Inn, Claremont.

The course will be instructed by Mrs. Helois Nilson, director of Dimensional Reading, Inc.

The fee is $60 and includes all materials. Registration may be made at the Upland Chamber of Commerce, 982-8816.

Here's something of value to stash away in your attic.

This may not look like much, but it's one of the best things you can store up there.

It's insulation. And whether you use this kind (which gets blown into place by professional contractors) or the kind you can roll out yourself, you're going to save money and energy.

Insulation keeps your home warmer in winter and cooler in summer. And it can cut the amount of gas you use for heating up to 20%.

Don't wait. Insulate now.

The less gas you use, the more money you'll save. And with energy costs rising rapidly, you'll be saving more all the time.

THE gas COMPANY

Call an insulation contractor or the Gas Company for a free estimate.

Music program slated

Collegium Musicum, an ensemble that performs medieval music on antique instruments, will present a concert in Balch Auditorium, Scripps College, at 8:15 tonight.

Admission is free.

Thirteen musicians will play and sing music ranging from the 14th to the 16th centuries. The instruments they use are recorders, tambourines, cymbals, drums, lutes, krummhorns and rackets. The latter two are antique wind instruments.

The music departments of Claremont Graduate School and Scripps College are sponsoring the concert. Frank Traficante, chairman of the CGS department, directs. Others who will participate in the concert are Al Rice, Paul Godby, Richard Jensen, Sylvia Lee-Thompson, Mary Hart, Tom Marking, Frank Albinder, Nancy Emery and David Smith.

Colligium Musicum is composed of students of all the Claremont Colleges with an interest in music of the medieval, Baroque and Renaissance periods.

College choir to sing

The Concert Choir of Claremont Men's, Harvey Mudd, Pitzer and Scripps colleges will present its winter concert in Bridges Hall, Pomona College, at 8 p.m. Saturday and at 3 and 8 p.m. Sunday. Admission is free. The group will be under its new director, Los Angeles conductor Harold A. Daugherty.

The program will include Leonard Bernstein's "Chichester Psalms" with countertenor Kenneth Jaffe, Daniel Pinkham's "Christmas Cantata," and Christmas carol settings. Accompanists will be Paul Bishop, keyboards; Sandy Dwelle, harpist; and the Debut Brass Quartet composed of Roy Poper, professor of trumpet, Pomona College; John Daley, leader; Alan Johnson and Mike Carl.

The motet "Jesu, meine Freude" by J.S. Bach will be performed by a new campus choral organization, the Claremont Colleges Chamber Singers. Like the Concert Choir, the singers are chosen from the student bodies of four of the Claremont Colleges.

Daugherty comes to the Claremont Colleges from similar positions at Sullins College, Bristol, Va., and Los Angeles City College.

Dance concert planned

The physical education department of Pomona College will present a dance concert in Pendleton Dance Studio at 8:30 p.m. Friday and at 2:30 and 8:30 p.m. Saturday. Admission is free.

The 20 students, under the direction of Jeannette Hypes, will perform dances ranging from jazz to pure movement forms.

Improvisational troupe sets three performances

I.T., the performing improvisational troupe of the Claremont Colleges, will offer a show in Avery Auditorium, Pitzer College, at 7 p.m. Saturday. Admission is free.

The company is sponsored by Pitzer College and the Four Colleges Drama Department at Scripps College.

I.T. has scheduled additional performances at the Strut and Fret Theater at Scripps College Dec. 11 and in Avery Auditorium Dec. 18.

The company performs both serious and comic forms of theater based on audience suggestions.

Further information can be obtained at 626-8511, Ext. 3528.

Cellophane developed

Cellophane was first developed around 1900 by a Swiss chemist named Brandenberger who was trying to combine vicose with cotton to make material that would resist dirt and staining.

Scientists say the earth is at least 3 billion years old and may be much, much older.

S.B.County consumer affairs office retained by supervisors

By JON MORRIS
PB Staff Writer

Residents of San Bernardino County will continue to have a place to take their consumer complaints thanks to action by the Board of Supervisors Monday.

The board voted unanimously to retain its consumer affairs office despite some concern voiced that county efforts are duplicating those of the state and federal government.

Board members had only funded the program for six months after budget hearings last summer when questions were raised over possible duplication.

Some supervisors also felt there was "overlap" between the consumer affairs office and the District Attorney's consumer fraud unit.

But after a plea to retain the program Monday by Supervisor Nancy Smith, board members decided to spend $19,670 to continue it until June 30, end of the current fiscal year.

They had various alternatives presented them by county officials: either upgrade the program, retain the present level of service or reduce it to only a referral service.

Mrs. Smith, arguing for retention, pointed out that since 1971 when the program was started, nearly $700,000 has been returned to consumers in various fraud cases.

The program came about as a result of numerous complaints from younger persons, the elderly and minority people who had been victims of fraud, noted Mrs. Smith. "There was one case in which an old woman withdrew her entire savings account to pay for a roofing contract that was as phony as a $3 bill."

Supervisors' Chairman Dennis Hansberger, who had voiced concern earlier over duplication with federal and state consumer programs, was absent from Monday's meeting.

Robert Townsend, Chino supervisor, noted there are numerous consumer cases that have not been prosecuted. Officials pointed out, however, that the District Attorney's unit is charged with prosecuting the cases, not the consumer affairs office.

In answering the question of duplication by the state and federal governments, David Hitchcock, administrator of the county's General Services Agency (which controls consumer affairs) said the county office is the only one dealing directly with individual consumers on all kinds of consumer problems.

Federal and state offices only become involved with specific violations of law in major cases, noted Hitchcock. They only move against big companies after getting numerous complaints, and do not deal with individual consumers, he said.

In a related matter, Mrs. Smith suggested that county officials seek state legislation to permit the county to collect fees for certifying weights and measures at various businesses including groceries. The state now collects those fees, with no funds being returned to the county.

Money from the fees could be used to upgrade the consumer affairs program, said Mrs. Smith.

Over 80,000 shots given in area

Flu vaccine program extended

By VONNE ROBERTSON
PB Staff Writer

Attendance at free flu clinics for the general public has risen steadily since the program was started in the valley in early November.

The increase in community interest and the availability of vaccine has prompted Los Angeles and San Bernardino county health departments to extend the program beyond the originally planned closing date in early December.

Los Angeles County has scheduled several new clinics in addition to ones previously set this week. San Bernardino

County is carrying its program into industrial locations in addition to clinics at health department offices.

Over 80,000 shots have been given in the region covered by the San Gabriel Valley Health Services Regional Office, according to Miss Mary Lou Ginther.

She compared figures from the first local clinics held in early November and the figures of clinics held last week. At Rowland High School in Rowland Heights, 73 people participated in the clinic on Nov. 8 while 257 received immunizations on Nov. 22.

Pomona Valley Community Hospital's clinic on Nov. 10 drew 517 persons while 939 adults were immunized at the hospital's Nov. 17 clinic.

Our Lady of the Assumption Catholic Church in Claremont drew 331 to its first clinic on Nov. 11 and 619 on Nov. 18, Miss Ginther reported.

Clinics will be held from 5 to 8 p.m. on Wednesday at PVCH and at Suzanne Intermediate School in Walnut.

Our Lady of the Assumption Catholic Church in Claremont has a clinic scheduled Thursday from 5 to 8 p.m. and will add another clinic during the same hours on Dec. 9.

The public may also attend a clinic Thursday from 5 to 8 p.m. at the Pomona Health Center, 750 S. Park Ave., Pomona.

Clinics added are on Monday, from 6 to 9 p.m. at the South Hills Neighborhood Center, 1170 W. Fremont St., Pomona, for senior citizens. This clinics will be sponsored by the South Hill Neighborhood Service Committee.

Pilgrim Congregational Church, 600 N. Garey Ave., Pomona, will be the location for a public clinic Dec. 8 from 5 to 8 p.m.

Two clinics are set on Dec. 11 from noon to 4 p.m. The Saturday clinics will be at the La Verne Community Center, 1550 Bonita Ave., La Verne, and Sacred Heart Catholic Church, 1263 S. Hamilton Blvd., Pomona.

Over 16,300 shots were given during 19 clinics in November in the West End, according to San Bernardino County Health Department.

Three clinics during one weekend at the Montclair Plaza attracted 3,855 people.

The San Bernardino County officials are conducting clinics within next various industrial firms during the two weeks. Immunizations will be available to adults at the West End Health Center, 1020 W. Sixth St., Ontario, on Thursdays from 8:30 a.m. to noon and Fridays from 1 to 4 p.m.

Flu shots are also available at the Chino County Building, 13260 Central Ave., Chino, Mondays through Fridays from 8:30 a.m. to noon.

Immunizations are also available by appointment at the Cucamonga Health Department Service office by calling 987-4759.

The clinics are free to all individuals 18 years of age and older, including senior citizens. Persons over the age of 45 and high risk individuals over 18 may receive a single shot which is a combination of the A Victoria and the Swine vaccine.

A second booster shot is now recommended for persons between the ages of 18 and 14, with a four-week interval. These booster shots are available at the clinics.

Since the body requires two weeks to build up antibodies for maximum immunity against the flu, health department officials recommend that immunizations be on obtained as early as possible before the increase in flu cases which is anticipated in January.

Operation Increased Attendance not so great?

Claremont police capture several Pomona youths after burglaries

By GEORGE MacLAREN
PB Staff Writer

Operation Increased Attendance may be working in Pomona, but it's causing extra work for Claremont police, and the Claremont police chief doesn't like what is happening.

The Pomona Valley Juvenile Diversion Project has launched an anti-truancy program for high schoolers in the Pomona School District for a second year, and Pomona police are picking up students and returning them to their schools.

"Pomona thinks it is great," Claremont City Councilman Frank Hungerford reported at a joint meeting of the City Council and Claremont school board.

Hungerford is chairman of the project board.

"The police are happy because they are keeping burglars off the streets. The school district and the city are happy," Hungerford said.

"Some of the little burglars are coming over into Claremont," he commented, and that is what is making Chief Charles Lines unhappy.

He has reported that 11 burglary suspects, all from Pomona, were tied in with four Claremont break-ins during five days of school.

Lines said that he talked to the youth offenders and that they said the Pomona police were putting the heat on them so they came to Claremont.

They made their way to Claremont on foot or by RTD bus. "After all, you can get one every 15 or 20 minutes," he said. "They take things they can carry easily, including firearms. I hate to be inundated with other people's problems," he said.

He noted that alert neighbors phoned the police about the burglars.

Lines said that Claremont joined Pomona and Bonita school districts during the spring of 1974 when Operation Attendance was first tried.

"It was a great success," Lines recalled. "During a 10-day period, 150 youngsters who were supposed to be in school were picked up and taken to a neutral place."

Lines explained that the program is difficult to operate at Claremont because of the module system.

Lines said that this year the module system has changed, and there is a trend toward the more conventional period set-up.

"We can carry on Operation Increased Attendance informally in Claremont," Lines explained.

"We're doing everything we can now," he said.

He explained that the department's phone calls for service increased by 33 percent the past three months.

Superior Court loses 3 judges, gains 2

By JACK BURSON
PB Staff Writer

The Pomona Superior Court will lose three judges effective Jan. 3 and will be assigned two replacements.

Those being transferred are Robert B. Lopez, William R. Clay and David F. Cunningham. All have been assigned to Juvenile Court under Peter S. Smith, presiding judge of the Juvenile Court and Mental Health Department.

Those joining the six judges who were assigned to Pomona last year are Roberta Ralph and S.S. Schwartz. Both were practicing attorneys when they unseated two incumbent judges in the November election. Neither has any judicial experience. The new assignments and transfers mean that the local court will be down one judge from last year.

Those reassigned to the Pomona court are Paul Egly, who will be the supervising judge for the fourth straight year, and judges Howard D. McClain, Carlos M. Teran, Glenn M. Pfau, Francis J. Garvey and Sam Cianchetti.

Egly said that the outlook for staying current next year is pessimistic. He noted that the Pomona court has the second highest backlog of criminal cases in the county and the prospects for keeping up with new cases filed is dim. He added that the local court appears to be losing ground in its civil cases.

A former Pomona judge and a Claremont resident, Charles S. Vogel was designated supervising judge of the law and motion departments where pretrial matters are heard. Those hearings often end in civil trials.

The third newly-elected judge, David J. Aisenson, won the office vacated by former Pomona Superior Court Judge Robert M. Takasugi.

The assignments were announced by Presiding Judge Robert A. Wenke.

Claremont Manor residents to get financial assistance

By DAN NIEBRUGGE
PB Staff Writer

About 21 per cent of the 285 residents at the Claremont Manor retirement home will be in need of further assistance to pay for their care, room and boarding at the Pacific Homes retirement village in the coming years.

This information comes from a Nov. 20 meeting of the Pacific and Southwest Conference of the United Methodist Church in Los Angeles where the church voted to increase its financial assistance commitment to the Pacific Homes Corp., operator of Claremont Manor and seven other retirement homes in the Southwest and Hawaii.

Lloyd Rochambeau, administrator of Claremont Manor, explained that the church conference increased its financial commitment from what had been $350,000 per year over the next four years to $700,000 a year over the next four years with a total commitment of $5 million over the next 10 years.

Rochambeau said the Manor will now begin the process of renegotiating contracts with its residents to discover who will need what aid and how the Manor will face its ever-increasing costs. Assistance received from the church goes beyond that which residents may already receive from Supplemental Security Income (SSI) or Medi Cal. Rochambeau said he estimates 21 per cent of the residents will require added assistance and that 50 per cent of those in the convalescent unit of the Manor will require additional funds to maintain their care.

Rochambeau said that costs at the Manor may range from $300 a month for a regular resident to $750 a month for a resident in the convalescent unit.

Operating costs for the retirement village continue to increase, said Rochambeau. The budget for the Manor this year is $1,260,000 while last year's operating costs were $1,037,000, a difference of $223,000 or about a 21.5 per cent increase.

Throughout the corporation, said Rochambeau, increased financial aid will be required by 21 per cent of the regular residents and about 58 per cent of the convalescent unit residents.

In order to come up with the additional funding, the United Methodist Church Conference in Los Angeles was forced to eliminate 25 clerical and administrative positions from its payroll.

Walnut's revenue limit up to voters

The Walnut School Board voted unanimously Monday evening to go before the voters in the March 8 election and request a $75 revenue limit increase for the district's students.

The district's current $58 revenue limit increase expires this year after winning voter approval two years ago. Revenue limit increases are the amount per student a district may receive beyond its tax revenue and the revenue it receives from the state as set up under Senate Bill 90.

School officials estimate the $75 revenue limit increase would place an additional 10 cents per $100 assessed valuation on school district property tax bills. At this time, however, the exact amount of the tax increase is difficult to determine, officials said.

Regardless of the outcome of the $75 revenue limit increase the district will lose its present $58 revenue limit increase. The $75 increase would be in effect for two years.

The matter was placed on the ballot for the same election in which voters will be deciding whether or not Diamond Bar Schools should secede from the Pomona Unified School District.

Public hearing in Walnut set for Wednesday

A public hearing is scheduled for 9 a.m. Wednesday in Los Angeles on whether a subdivider should be allowed to build more homes than now permitted on a 16-acre pace parcel of land in Walnut.

The hearing will be before the zoning board of the Regional Planning Commission in the Hall of Records.

The parcel is located on the southeast corner of Lycoming and Lincoln streets.

Walnut developer Arciero and Sons, Inc., wants to change the density from one home per 10,000 and 15,000 square feet of land to one home per 6,000 square feet.

If his application is approved, he plans to construct 80 homes on the acreage.

C-CAP to hold general meeting

The California Community Alert Patrol (C-CAP), will hold its general meeting Wednesday at 7:30 p.m. in the Pomona Education Building, 800 S. Garey Ave. The meeting is open to the public.

Pomona boy hit by car

A Pomona youngster suffered a possibly-broken ankle late Monday morning when he was hit by a car while crosing Indian Hill Boulevard in a pedestrian crosswalk, police reported.

The child, James D. Stephens, 8, was crossing at San Bernardino Avenue when he was hit by a car driven by Bernard J. Wiederholt, 59, of Claremont. Police reported that Wiederholt passed a line of stopped cars but failed to stop at the crosswalk. James had been escorted most of the way across the street by a crossing guard.

The victim was taken to Pomona Valley Community Hospital where he was released after treatment.

Brown's two year record

The convening of the new legislature next week will mark the halfway point in Gov. Jerry Brown's four year term. Perhaps because of the natural charisma of youth, and his penchant for an unorthodoxy which at times borders on the absurd, Brown has enjoyed an unusually long "honeymoon" as governor.

In the spirit of giving the new governor a chance to get organized he has been allowed to parry hard questions with questions, shift responsibility to the legislature or to subordinates, or to otherwise fault the Republican administration in Washington or the previous state administration.

But the days of reckoning have arrived. The nimble footed shadow boxing will no longer serve. Having been in power for two years he is now to be held accountable for the condition of the state. His record has now become indelible.

Ironically, Brown might have prolonged his fortuitous image of "popular young governor" were it not for his strong personal ambitions. Succumbing to those he kicked over the traces. Discarding his pose as a "non-politician too busy with gubernatorial duties" to participate in the mundane affairs of partisan politics, he leaped into the hustings in an effort to capture the Democratic presidential nomination. In the doing he focused attention on his conduct as governor.

And, although interest in Brown as a presidential contender has now passed, the spotlight on him as governor has grown more intense. Insuring that this attention will henceforth be more critical is the fact that his highly touted "popularity" has been damaged more than somewhat, perhaps irretrievably, by his championing of the farm labor Prop. 14 issue. If the 5 to 3 defeat of that measure is an index of Brown's personal strength he is already a has been.

As the white glare of light shines on the stark record his bon hommies and bon mots are revealed as coverups for failures and ignorance. For that record is largely one of inaction. Despite his seeming dedication to work, as attributed to long hours of seclusion in his office, things just aren't getting done.

The style that emerges is one of action being reaction. Not only did Brown pass the opportunity to spell out administration goals for legislative consideration, he has failed to provide them for his departments. Instead he awaits a crisis and then plunges into total concentration to the complete obliteration of all other problems.

Aside from the passage of the farm labor legislation, Brown can claim no significant achievements during his first two years. That was clearly apparent when, during his presidential bid, he himself put forth as a major accomplishment the enactment of a law limiting the amount of water to be used in flushing toilets. Even there he was fudging since all he did was sign legislation dreamed up by others.

So far he has won most of his public approval by his stance as a fiscal conservative. Yet, in his two years the state budget has increased more than 25 per cent and state taxes have been raised almost $1 billion.

As for his ability as an executive, the fact that an average of 500 appointive positions have gone unfilled is only one indication of ineptness. More significant are the messes erupting in prepaid health programs, state mental hospitals, highway construction programs, and soon to be disclosed problems in the motor vehicle department. Regardless of the genesis of these maladministrations, Brown has now been governor sufficiently long to be held responsible. And even if he somehow manages to get those problems squared away, his tendency to single-issue preoccupation harbors the potential for other areas of crisis.

Carter was smart

WASHINGTON — (NEA) Under the umbrella of his transition team, set up last August, candidate Jimmy Carter operated one of the most effective strategies for winning over strategically placed personalities that I've seen in a half-dozen presidential elections.

This team, preparing for a Carter Administration months before it was clear there would be a Carter Administration, was assigned a small-scale budget of $140,000 out of scarce campaign funds and sought position papers and written advice from several thousand influential citizens nationwide on what a Carter Administration's policies should be.

Now there is nothing more flattering to a man or woman, however prominent, to be asked his views on a major national issue by the presidential nominee of a major political party. And when that candidate asks for a five to eight-page written proposal on a matter with which you are deeply concerned, the flattery is most compelling.

I know one prominent man, active at high levels in a succession of Republican and Democratic administrations — with a philosophy roughly 180 degrees from Mr. Carter's — who became a convert after being asked to submit his thoughts, though he had no assurance his advice would be followed. This man knew, in fact, that the overwhelming advice on the subject in which he is expert was being sought from those with views radically different from his own.

The unstated implication, though repeatedly denied, was that having been asked for advice, the adviser would then eventually be considered for a top-level position in a Carter Administration, assuming a Democratic victory.

I understand, in fact, that between a thousand and two thousand of those solicited did in fact submit written opinions on subjects like government reorganization, business, labor and regulatory agency problems, defense, foreign affairs, intelligence activities, inflation and unemployment.

Now a few thousand men and women are but slightly more than a droplet in a national election. But they can be highly influential all the same if carefully chosen from among those who hold leadership positions in labor and finance, religious and minority groups, academic and agricultural circles, and in other circles where Mr. Carter needed votes to secure a victory.

With key men and women of influence being drawn into the circle, however obliquely — and however small their actual weight in Mr. Carter's plans — the word gets around. And much more effectively than through radio, TV, speeches and other standard campaign techniques. What's created is an aura of reflected prestige and competence gleaned from the reputations of those he's asked for advice and counsel.

There is every indication in the weeks since Nov. 2 that Mr. Carter, as president, will use this or similar techniques in his attempts to get Congress to go along with him in carrying out his aims. Senators and Representatives love, above all, to be listened to by anyone, particularly a President.

The Carter transition team was effectively run, as is now well known, by young Jack Watson, former Georgia government official, Harvard law school graduate, born in El Paso, Texas, raised in Pine Bluff Arkansas, and a team carefully selected to include 12 to 14 per cent blacks and 38 per cent women, mostly aged 30 to 40.

Foot-in-mouth diplomacy

WASHINGTON — Shortly before the November elections, Chilean Ambassador Manuel Trucco wrote a nasty letter to Jimmy Carter. The truculent Trucco isn't expected to last long in Washington, therefore, after Carter is inaugurated on January 20.

Trucco scolded Carter for his statements about Chile and implied that his advisers had been brainwashed by Marxists. It isn't considered good form, of course, for an ambassador to insult the leaders of his host government. Ambassadors are supposed to be gracious and charming and careful what they say.

For diplomacy is as fragile as a crystal champagne glass. An accomplished ambassador can make his points with a whispered word, a raised eyebrow, a diplomatic frown.

But Trucco, writing with a heavy hand, informed Carter that his campaign statements about Chile were "without substantiating evidence but in open defiance of historic facts."

Carter had charged that the Republican administration had helped to overthrow an elected government in Chile and to establish a military dictatorship in its place. He also attacked Chilean prisons.

Wrote Trucco: "The government of the United States did not participate, nor intervene, dear Governor Carter, in the (end of) the 'legitimately elected' government."

The ambassador suggested that Carter had swallowed press reports "in which passion has obscured the truth" and that Carter's advisers had been "caught unawares by another falsehood." Trucco implied that their information was "based on propaganda which representatives of the Marxist parties . . . have spread around the world."

He wound up his letter by offering to set Carter and his advisers straight "on Latin American affairs, especially Chilean affairs."

Apparently, Trucco neglected to clear his foot-in-mouth diplomacy with his superiors in Chile. Diplomatic sources have told us that his letter to Carter enraged the Chilean military leaders who have been trying to dress up their dictatorship lately.

Trucco was furious when we told him we had a copy of his intemperate letter. It was a "private, confidential, informal letter," he fumed, in which "I expressed my views without safeguards. I say it's private. Should it be stolen? There should not be two ethical codes."

Then he hung up the telephone, with a parting insult.

LAST-MINUTE LOAN — Nine days before President Ford turns over the government to Jimmy Carter, the Ford administration intends to commit the United States to a huge, $5 billion foreign loan program for underdeveloped lands.

The deal is scheduled to be sealed on January 11 at a meeting of the International Development Association in faraway Kuwait. The United States will be represented by Gerald Parsky, a fast-talking, young assistant treasury secretary.

His critics charge that he has suddenly become generous with the taxpayers' billions as a way of ingratiating himself with the foreign banking community, which has been pushing the loan. Thus Parsky, upon his return to private investment banking, will have many foreign financiers in his debt, the critics allege.

From Kuwait, Parsky vehemently denied the charge. "Absolutely not," he barked over the trans-Atlantic phone. He said Carter's representatives would be consulted and that the decision to commit the $5 billion was "not final."

Yet an outraged House Banking Chairman Henry Reuss, D.-Wis., has written a private protest letter to Treasury Secretary William Simon about it. Reuss urged that the negotiations "be cancelled and rescheduled when the new administration takes office. Only in this way can we . . . avoid any international confrontation or embarrassment which might ensue if the outgoing administration were to make commitments with which the new administration is not in accord."

Not to attend the Kuwait meeting, Simon told us, would appear to the underdeveloped countries to be "an act of bad faith."

Your doctor intimidated

Doctor bills are higher than ever and going higher yet — if only because the doctor has to have extra income to pay his higher-than-ever malpractice insurance premium.

Why, after all these generations, is everybody suddenly deciding to sue the doctor? There are four reasons:
—Incompetent doctors.
—Unethical lawyers.
—Greedy people.
—The increasingly impersonal doctor-patient relationship.

Who could imagine suing the old-time friend-of-the-family doctor?

And there is another factor. Powerful new drugs and sophisticated new surgical techniques are often tried on patients who formerly had to be given up on.

And when the techniques fail — and most do fail — the tendency is to assume it's the doctor's fault.

The average American family now makes 12 trips a year to the doctor. The cost, in fees, drugs and tests, is more than $400 a year. Two-thirds of those trips to the doctor are unnecessary, each family could save $300 a year.

Probably 3 million surgical operations are performed each year — unnecessarily.

A Cornell study confirms that fully 13 percent of patients who are advised by their physicians to have surgery — don't need it.

Then why all this additional — and more-expensive — medical treatment? Your doctor is intimidated.

He is afraid NOT to operate.

There is another voice whispering in his ear — the voice of the insurance man — telling him that if he does NOT give all those additional (and frequently superfluous) tests . . .

If he does NOT recommend an operation — and any symptom shows up later — the doctor may be sued for malpractice.

So the frightened doctor adds and charges you for much additional testing and treatment — including X rays — because he is afraid not to.

Doctors last year ordered 67 percent more X rays (with the potential to do more harm than good), 66 percent more lab tests, 51 percent more specialist consultations — and you paid for these unnecessarily expanded medical services.

Understand, malpractice lawsuits are not paid by your doctor.

The doctor merely adds enough additional to what he charges for his services to pay for malpractice insurance.

So it's the patients who pay.

Last year every trip you made to the doctor he had to charge you an additional $1.24 to pay his insurance premium.

And the American Medical Assn. says you'll be paying an even greater "penalty" this year.

Doc Peirsol

Just in jest

Christmas giving at best is something of a problem, but fortunately this year there are innovations that could make your shopping a care-free outing. — For the juvenile delinquents on your list there is a new game on the market that will undoubtedly make a big hit with discriminating young punks.

It is called "Lie, Cheat and Steal." — And for the hard to please man about town, what could be more appropriate than a game called "Seduction?" — But maybe your problem is what to give a subteenager. Here, too, there is something new for Christmas 1976. — a shrunken head apple sculpture set.

—So with all those brand new gift ideas going for you, why worry? However, should none of them seem to quite fill the bill, you can always get out from under by giving the adults a book of 10 deluxe admission tickets to their local porno theater, and the children a fistful of coupons redeemable for merchandise at any 7-11 store.

A dishonorable abuse of power

WASHINGTON — (NEA) — No sooner had the Democrats seized the White House with promises of restoring confidence in the political system than one of their own was blackening that system anew.

Wendell Anderson, governor of Minnesota, is the culprit. Hisses and fie on him. Faced with the duty of naming a Senate replacement for Walter Mondale, who is stepping up to lower things, Anderson decided there was only one man in the state with enough competence and enough stature to replace Mondale: Wendell Anderson.

Ergo the governor has conceived an unhappy plan to further his own interests. He will resign his present office, allowing Lt. Gov. Rudy Perpich to take over. Perpich will then select Anderson — who, after all, will be out of work and essentially a wasted resource — to be the new junior senator from the land of 10,000 lakes.

Anderson is aware there will be criticism of his action. Already a poll has been conducted indicating that 55 per cent of the Minnesotans questioned do not want the governor to elect himself to the Senate. But since the polls have no authority, and since politics is often the art of preventing people from engaging in what is their own business, Anderson insists all skepticism will be disregarded.

"I'm sure some will react negatively," the governor says, "but I hope that my work in the Senate will earn their support and justify my election to a full term in 1978." Displaying no shame at all, Anderson is already campaigning for a Senate career, and what with the incumbent's advantage he is bestowing on himself he'll likely get it.

That the Minnesotan has yearned for a national pulpit has been apparent for years. A one-time Olympic hockey player and attorney, he has been in political office for 18 of his 43 years, and has been touted as a comer since early this decade. Curly haired, blue eyed, moderate in all things including philosophy, he is a prodigy of Hubert Humphrey and a ripening favorite of his mighty party.

He is a bit too Democratic, perhaps. At the past party convention, as chairman of the platform committee, Anderson fought hard for a rule — a loyalty oath, really — which would force all candidates to promise allegiance to the eventual nominee. Thus he wanted Jimmy Carter and company to swear fidelity even if George Wallace was the pick. This he argued was for the good of the party, hence the Republic.

But extremism in defense of Democratic unity isn't a vice, not to those who can add registration figures. And it is this sort of devotion which has led Democrats to believe Anderson is too big for a mere gubernatorial chair. With his good looks and fortuitous attitude, they say, he could be president some day. But not by staying in Minnesota; governors have a way of working themselves into obscurity.

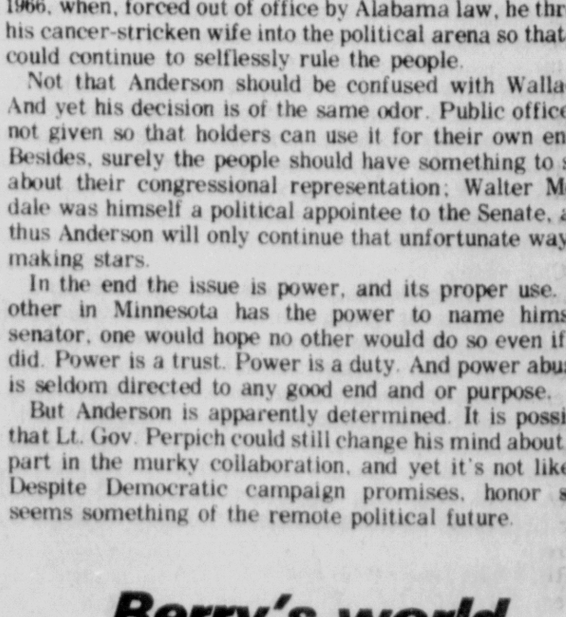

And so, by golly, it is not just for the good of Minnesota that Wendell Anderson is using his office for personal gain, it is in effect for the good future of America. This no doubt is the same rationale used by George Wallace in 1966, when, forced out of office by Alabama law, he threw his cancer-stricken wife into the political arena so that he could continue to selflessly rule the people.

Not that Anderson should be confused with Wallace. And yet his decision is of the same odor. Public office is not given so that holders can use it for their own ends. Besides, surely the people should have something to say about their congressional representation; Walter Mondale was himself a political appointee to the Senate, and thus Anderson will only continue that unfortunate way of making stars.

In the end the issue is power, and its proper use. No other in Minnesota has the power to name himself senator, one would hope no other would do so even if he did. Power is a trust. Power is a duty. And power abused is seldom directed to any good end and or purpose.

But Anderson is apparently determined. It is possible that Lt. Gov. Perpich could still change his mind about his part in the murky collaboration, and yet it's not likely. Despite Democratic campaign promises, honor still seems something of the remote political future.

Ann Landers

Do you measure up to class?

Dear Ann Landers: Several years ago you printed a definition of "class." I cut it out and reread it from time to time, measuring myself (as objectively as I could) to see how I stacked up.

I mislaid the clipping a few months ago and now I feel the need for some self-reassessment. Will you please hunt up that column and run it again? Thank you in advance. — Measuring Mysel In Atherton, Calif.

Dear Ath: Glad you asked. Perhaps others who see it for the first time will also "measure themselves."

WHAT IS CLASS?

Class never runs scared. It is sure-footed and confident in the knowledge that you can meet life head on and handle whatever comes along.

Jacob had it. Esau didn't. Symbolically, we can look to Jacob's wrestling match with the angel. Those who have class have wrestled with their own personal "angel" and won a victory that marks them thereafter.

Class never makes excuses. It takes its lumps and learns from past mistakes.

Class is considerate of others. It knows that good manners is nothing more than a series of petty sacrifices.

Class bespeaks an aristocracy that has nothing to do with ancestors or money. The most affluent blue-blood can be totally without class while the descendant of a Welsh miner may ooze class from every port.

Class never tries to build itself up by tearing others down Class is ALREADY up and need not strive to look better by making others look worse.

Class can " walk with kings and keep its virtue and talk with crowds and keep the common touch." Everyone is comfortable with the person who has class — because he is comfortable with himself.

If you have class you don't need much of anything else. If you don't have it, no matter what else you do have — it doesn't make much difference.

Dear Ann Landers: I don't know if you are a bridge player but I think you can give me some good advice whether you know the game or not.

Last night my husband Herb and I were playing with my sis and her husband. They are excellent bridge players and usually beat us but we enjoy the challenge nevertheless.

Herb has a habit of overbidding his hand and I have to watch him. Last night he made a reckless bid of six spades. All I said was, "Either you are crazy or I'm blind." He gave me a nasty look and snarled, "Why don't you just keep you mouth shut and play the hand?"

We didn't make it and he was furious.

After my sis and her husband left, Herb said, "That dumb remark of yours cost us the game. I don't want to play cards with you ever again."

I believe I'M the one who should be angry — not him. What do you think, Ann Landers? — Grandly Slammed

Dear Grandly: Card fights can produce a dandy climate for all sorts of battles — unrelated to the game. I see 52 good reasons why you should never play cards with your husband — Throw in the deck — permanently.

How daiquiri got its name

In 1898, some bigwigs developed an iron ore mine outside of Santiago, Cuba. Next to the entrance, they set up a barrel filled with rum, lime juice, sugar and ice, so each of the miner at day's end could down a glassful before heading home. While on an inspection tour, Bethlehem Steel's President Charles M. Schwab took a sip of the concoction, liked it, and carried th recipe home. His subsequent house guests liked it, too. And when they asked him what it was called, he named it most spontaneously in honor of that Cuban iron mine, the Daiquiri.

At what age does a women reach the apex of her beauty? Argument continues as to that. But surveys repeatedly have shown that the majority of people think the peak of pulchritude comes about at age 30.

And to that lengthening list of never-die one-liners, add: "Old bakers never die, they're just not kneaded anymore."

SLOT MACHINES

Q. "Do the manufacturers of those slot machines called one-armed bandits make any other devices not for gambling?"

A. Do indeed. Postage stamp dispensers. Gum ball and candy venders. Automatic money changers.

The most experienced range cooks of the Old West's cattle country also were some of the most experienced scouts. Why is because they always took off ahead of the herd so the evening meal would be waiting for the drovers at the next grazing spot.

List, too, that fellow named John Aikenhead, who sells aspirin at a drugstore in Santa Monica, Calif., among the more recent nominees for membership in the Proper Job Club.

THEATER MARQUEES

What's needed around here on theater marquees is a little imagination. That's what I said. Example: "Earthquake" an "The Towering Inferno" would be a double feature that could be billed as "Shake and Bake." Clients suggest these, too: "The Sailor Who Fell from Grace with the Sea" and "The Man Who Fell to Earth" could be billed as "Two Falls Out of Three." Also: "The Man Who Loved Cat Dancing" and "Cat on a Hot Tin Roof" could be billed as "Here, Kitty, Kitty!" Plus: "The Shootist" and "Bambi" could be billed as "The Buck Stops Here." Further: "Blackbird" and "Shampoo" could be billed as "Birdbath."

A 19th century scholar named George Miller Beard whimsically assayed the decades of a lifetime as though they were metals. The twenties, he said are bronze. The thirties, gold. The forties, silver. The fifties, iron. And the sixties, tin.

One of the most dependable statistics in thoroughbred horse racing is that 33 per cent of all such races nationwide are won by the favorites.

Dr. Miller

Put a song in cricket's heart

DEAR DR. MILLER: I keep my crickets in separate cages because I've heard that sometimes they turn into cannibals. Do crickets sing when they're happy? If that's so, then mine must not be very happy because Jimmy, my favorite cricket, has only sung once. How can I get him to sing more? — A.O.

DEAR A.O.: Male crickets sing (rub their forewings together to produce their calling song) primarily in anticipation. That is, to call the female. Since female crickets secrete a chemical which stimulates song-releasing in the male, one way to encourage Jimmy "Caruso" Cricket to sing his little heart out would be to carpet his cage with papers from other cricket cages, some of which should contain females.

DEAR DR. MILLER: Since Tubby's an inside dog, I have plenty of time to notice such things. Right now, it's the feet and nose I'm talking about. He always used to have a cold nose and warm feet. Lately, though, his nose has always been warm and his feet cold. Why, do you suppose? By the way, the floor isn't cold or anything like that. — N.M.

DEAR N.M.: Tubby's turnabout could indicate a fever (the continuously warm nose) and possibly poor circulation (the cold feet). Conversely, those findings could be insignificant. If Tubby's feeling fine, there's no worry. If he's not, he should be checked by his doctor — and soon.

DEAR DR. MILLER: We've only had one baby in our house for the last six years, our cat, Tootsie. Soon, though, there will be another of the sparser-haired, diaper-wearing variety. Tootsie's a jealous, pampered darling. How can I get her to accept my new child with good grace? Please don't tell me it's hopeless. — H.B.

DEAR H.B.: Difficult, perhaps, but definitely not hopeless. Avoiding Tootsie tantrums will be easier if she's allowed to meet, to see and sniff (but not to slurp or cuddle) the new baby as soon as possible after its arrival home. The sooner a cat's curiosity is satisfied regarding a newcomer, the better. It will be easier then for her to understand the new center of attention, where the baby sounds emenate, and generally to reduce her confusion. You'll have the tough task of trying to pay even more attention to Tootsie to reassure her, while having less time to accomplish it. Above all, try to convince her that being Number Two isn't all that bad.

Erma Bombeck

She also is misunderstood

We have one child who is misunderstood . . . literally.

From the day he uttered his first word, "Bweaba" (meaning there's a rainbow around my diaper) to present day, no one seems to know what he's talking about.

I don't know why, but I'm the only one in the family who can translate. When he was a toddler, he stood for hours at his father's elbow shouting, "Me no, na, noo noo" and his father would shrug and say, "What's he want?"

"Well, what do you think he wants?" I'd say irritably.

"He's either telling us the dog hates cold spaghetti, he hates the encyclopedia we bought for him, or he just swallowed his pacifier."

"He is trying to tell you he dropped his cookie down his drawers. I mean, how dense can a father be?"

As he got older, things got worse.

"That kid has to have his mouth fixed," said my husband.

"What now?"

"He just told me he has to know all of his bowels by tomorror because the teacher is having an English elimination."

"He's always had trouble with his V's," I said.

"That isn't all he has trouble with. If he goes around talking like that, they're going to put him in a class where he makes recipe holders out of wooden blocks and clothes pins all day."

"All he's ever tried to do," I sighed, "is imitate the rest of the family and he doesn't know how to pronounce the words yet."

"I'll say," said his brother. "He told the whole bus the other morning that you were a syndicated Communist."

"And he told everyone his teacher had hubcaps put on her teeth so they would look better," said his sister.

"And he told a client of mine on the phone the other night that I couldn't come to the phone because I was unapproachable. Really, something has to be done. At a football game the other night he yelled out, 'All we need now is one perversion and we win the game."

"What's the matter with that?" I snapped. "I told him myself one player had a mucilage separation in his shoulder and another was having trouble with his nymph gland and with the quarterback having a sensuous shoulder, we needed all the perversions we could get!"

You should have seen my family sit up and look at me. I guess it's because I don't lose my temper too often.

Dr. Lamb

How to stop a nosebleed

DEAR DR. LAMB — What does one do to stop a nosebleed? It's very dry in our office and I find that I'm getting nosebleeds more often, especially in the winter. I know you have to apply pressure to the side of the nostril and pinch the bridge of the nose hard, but do you put your head forward or back? I don't like the blood flowing down my throat, so I would appreciate it if you could help me. Maybe a lot of people would like to know the correct way to treat a nosebleed.

DEAR READER — It makes a lot of difference whether the nosebleed is caused from getting hit in the nose with a baseball or from a ruptured blood vessel from high blood pressure.

For the garden variety of nosebleeds the soft tip of the nose should be pinched shut on both sides and held that way for 15 to 20 minutes.

You'll do better sitting up and you can lean forward a bit to help prevent blood from flowing down your throat. However, when the tip of the nose is closed and the nose fills with blood it will flow out the back of the nose down the throat regardless of how you hold your head.

And don't blow your nose for at least several hours after it has stopped bleeding.

You may need to pack the front of the nose with gauze. Leave the end of the gauze strip sticking out the end of the nose so it can be easily removed.

It does not do any good to pinch the bridge of the nose. The hard bony structure cannot be squeezed down to shut off a bleeder.

If you can't control the bleeding you will need to see a doctor. Bleeding from the back of the nose sometimes requires a post nasal pack that the doctor will have to put in place.

Areas of blood vessels at the surface inside the nose that tend to bleed repeatedly can sometimes be cauterized and hence removed.

One of the most common causes for nosebleeds is a dry lining of the nose. I suspect that is your problem. This also leads to "nose picking" which in turn leads to bleeding. A good trick for people with a dry nasal lining is to lubricate the inside of the nose. Just take a small cotton swab and put a little petroleum jelly on it. Now apply the jelly all over the inside of the nose. Let it stay there a while before you blow your nose. The lubricant will soften the lining and prevent drying. This procedure done every day may solve a dry nose problem and prevent recurrent nosebleeds.

Incidentally, bleeding from the back of the nose that requires a post nasal pack is relatively serious, associated with a four to five per cent death rate. The pack itself may be part of the problem. Drs. Anthony J. Geroulis and William J. Powell of the University of Chicago have had good success in tying off an artery to that area (internal maxillary artery) with no deaths or complications in more than 29 patients.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Partial successes are likely today because you'll have too many irons in the fire. Settle on just one or two things, but do them well.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) You have a tendency today to make unreasonable demands of loved ones. Your feelings could be hurt when they're unable to comply with your wishes.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Treat all your friends impartially today. Playing favorites must be avoided at all costs, or you'll turn off someone you're fond of.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Be careful not to tread on too many toes today in order to satisfy your ambitions. Your victory would be a hollow one.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Associates may agree with your ideas today, but express other opinions behind your back. Be careful who you put your trust in.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Business conditions are a bit trickier than usual for you today. Move warily. You could involve yourself in something costly.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Attend to your own responsibilities today before assuming those of others. Spreading yourself too thin will help no one.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) If you follow your prearranged plans today, things should work advantageously. However, you're likely to deviate a bit and cause problems.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan 19) Keep family affairs confidential today. Persons who don't share your roof should not be let in on family secrets.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) People who don't readily agree with you today tend to awaken your wrath. You would fare better if you try to understand their views.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) If you're too generous with the wrong person today you could feel like a patsy later on. Avoid anyone who formerly tried to take advantage of you.

Don't miss out on experiences

Recently, I enjoyed one of those rare nights when I had a date with my two youngest daughters. My wife was out of town speaking at a women's conference. So that morning I took my two little girls and I said, "Tonight will be my date with you girls. Pick any restaurant in Southern California and I'll take you there."

"Any one?"

"Yes." I enthused, "I'm splurging." And I rattled off a few fancy restaurants that I thought would impress them. I told them to think about it during the day and decide together on a restaurant.

That afternoon, they came home from school all excited. They were going to their favorite restaurant alone with their daddy! So I asked them, "Have you made a decision?"

They answered, "Yes," which I found difficult to believe.

"What is it? Which restaurant?"

"Well, we don't think you'll want to go there, dad."

"What do you mean I won't want to go there?" I protested, adding, "If you pick out a restaurant, I'm sure I'll love it. Where is it? Which restaurant?" And finally they told me they wanted to go to one of the local hot dog stands. It had a fancy name, but I had never heard of it. I didn't even know where it was. They willingly gave me directions and off we went.

It so happens that I'm not particularly fond of hot dogs. And that's about all I could see on the menu. But Gretchen, my 9 year old, was enthusiastic! "You must try the chili and cheese dog, Daddy, you'll love it." (I have to come to the conclusion that when God created my stomach it was not designed for chili!) But at any rate, I endured to the end.

They told their mother the next morning, "Boy Dad loved that restaurant. He must take you there soon."

I must admit, we had a beautiful time together — just the three of us eating hot dogs. A simple meal, but a beautiful and profound fellowship.

Maybe Faith in God sounds as simplistic to you as hot dogs did to me that evening. And you may be tempted to snobbishly dismiss religious ideas as culturally or artistically beneath your tastes. All the while you might be missing a truly profound and beautiful experience. For faith can bring you to God and God will satisfy and nourish your whole being like nothing else.

Brown's two year record

The convening of the new legislature next week will mark the halfway point in Gov. Jerry Brown's four year term. Perhaps because of the natural charisma of youth, and his penchant for an unorthodoxy which at times borders on the absurd, Brown has enjoyed an unusually long "honeymoon" as governor.

In the spirit of giving the new governor a chance to get organized he has been allowed to parry hard questions with questions, shift responsibility to the legislature or to subordinates, or to otherwise fault the Republican administration in Washington or the previous state administration.

But the days of reckoning have arrived. The nimble footed shadow boxing will no longer serve. Having been in power for two years he is now to be held accountable for the condition of the state. His record has now become indelible.

Ironically, Brown might have prolonged his fortuitous image of "popular young governor" were it not for his strong personal ambitions. Succumbing to those he kicked over the traces. Discarding his pose as a "non-politician too busy with gubernatorial duties" to participate in the mundane affairs of partisan politics, he leaped into the hustings in an effort to capture the Democratic presidential nomination. In the doing he focused attention on his conduct as governor.

And, although interest in Brown as a presidential contender has now passed, the spotlight on him as governor has grown more intense. Insuring that this attention will henceforth be more critical is the fact that his highly touted "popularity" has been damaged more than somewhat, perhaps irretrievably, by his championing of the farm labor Prop. 14 issue. If the 5 to 3 defeat of that measure is an index of Brown's personal strength he is already a has been.

As the white glare of light shines on the stark record his bon hommies and bon mots are revealed as coverups for failures and ignorance. For that record is largely one of inaction. Despite his seeming dedication to work, as attributed to long hours of seclusion in his office, things just aren't getting done.

The style that emerges is one of action being reaction. Not only did Brown pass the opportunity to spell out administration goals for legislative consideration, he has failed to provide them for his departments. Instead he awaits a crisis and then plunges into total concentration to the complete obliteration of all other problems.

Aside from the passage of the farm labor legislation, Brown can claim no significant achievements during his first two years. That was clearly apparent when, during his presidential bid, he himself put forth as a major accomplishment the enactment of a law limiting the amount of water to be used in flushing toilets. Even there he was fudging since all he did was sign legislation dreamed up by others.

So far he has won most of his public approval by his stance as a fiscal conservative. Yet, in his two years the state budget has increased more than 25 per cent and state taxes have been raised almost $1 billion.

As for his ability as an executive, the fact that an average of 500 appointive positions have gone unfilled is only one indication of ineptness. More significant are the messes erupting in prepaid health programs, state mental hospitals, highway construction programs, and soon to be disclosed problems in the motor vehicle department. Regardless of the genesis of these maladministrations, Brown has now been governor sufficiently long to be held responsible. And even if he somehow manages to get those problems squared away, his tendency to single-issue preoccupation harbors the potential for other areas of crisis.

Carter was smart

WASHINGTON — (NEA) Under the umbrella of his transition team, set up last August, candidate Jimmy Carter operated one of the most effective strategies for winning over strategically placed personalities that I've seen in a half-dozen presidential elections.

This team, preparing for a Carter Administration months before it was clear there would be a Carter Administration, was assigned a small-scale budget of $140,000 out of scarce campaign funds and sought position papers and written advice from several thousand influential citizens nationwide on what a Carter Administration's policies should be.

Now there is nothing more flattering to a man or woman, however prominent, to be asked his views on a major national issue by the presidential nominee of a major political party. And when that candidate asks for a five to eight-page written proposal on a matter with which you are deeply concerned, the flattery is most compelling.

I know one prominent man, active at high levels in a succession of Republican and Democratic administrations — with a philosophy roughly 180 degrees from Mr. Carter's — who became a convert after being asked to submit his thoughts, though he had no assurance his advice would be followed. This man knew, in fact, that the overwhelming advice on the subject in which he is expert was being sought from those with views radically different from his own.

The unstated implication, though repeatedly denied, was that having been asked for advice, the adviser would then eventually be considered for a top-level position in a Carter Administration, assuming a Democratic victory.

I understand, in fact, that between a thousand and two thousand of those solicited did in fact submit written opinions on subjects like government reorganization, business, labor and regulatory agency problems, defense, foreign affairs, intelligence activities, inflation and unemployment.

Now a few thousand men and women are but slightly more than a droplet in a national election. But they can be highly influential all the same if carefully chosen from among those who hold leadership positions in labor and finance, religious and minority groups, academic and agricultural circles, and in other circles where Mr. Carter needed votes to secure a victory.

With key men and women of influence being drawn into the circle, however obliquely — and however small their actual weight in Mr. Carter's plans — the word gets around. And much more effectively than through radio, TV, speeches and other standard campaign techniques. What's created is an aura of reflected prestige and competence gleaned from the reputations of those he's asked for advice and counsel.

There is every indication in the weeks since Nov. 2 that Mr. Carter, as president, will use this or similar techniques in his attempts to get Congress to go along with him in carrying out his aims. Senators and Representatives love, above all, to be listened to by anyone, particularly a President.

The Carter transition team was effectively run, as is now well known, by young Jack Watson, former Georgia government official, Harvard law school graduate, born in El Paso, Texas, raised in Pine Bluff Arkansas, and a team carefully selected to include 12 to 14 per cent blacks and 38 per cent women, mostly aged 30 to 40.

Foot-in-mouth diplomacy

WASHINGTON — Shortly before the November elections, Chilean Ambassador Manuel Trucco wrote a nasty letter to Jimmy Carter. The truculent Trucco isn't expected to last long in Washington, therefore, after Carter is inaugurated on January 20.

Trucco scolded Carter for his statements about Chile and implied that his advisers had been brainwashed by Marxists. It isn't considered good form, of course, for an ambassador to insult the leaders of his host government. Ambassadors are supposed to be gracious and charming and careful what they say.

For diplomacy is as fragile as a crystal champagne glass. An accomplished ambassador can make his points with a whispered word, a raised eyebrow, a diplomatic frown.

But Trucco, writing with a heavy hand, informed Carter that his campaign statements about Chile were "without substantiating evidence but in open defiance of historic facts."

Carter had charged that the Republican administration had helped to overthrow an elected government in Chile and to establish a military dictatorship in its place. He also attacked Chilean prisons.

Wrote Trucco: "The government of the United States did not participate, nor intervene, dear Governor Carter, in the (end of) the 'legitimately elected' government."

The ambassador suggested that Carter had swallowed press reports "in which passion has obscured the truth" and that Carter's advisers had been "caught unawares by another falsehood." Trucco implied that their information was "based on propaganda which representatives of the Marxist parties . . . have spread around the world."

He wound up his letter by offering to set Carter and his advisers straight "on Latin American affairs, especially Chilean affairs."

Apparently, Trucco neglected to clear his foot-in-mouth diplomacy with his superiors in Chile. Diplomatic sources have told us that his letter to Carter enraged the Chilean military leaders who have been trying to dress up their dictatorship lately.

Trucco was furious when we told him we had a copy of his intemperate letter. It was a "private, confidential, informal letter," he fumed, in which "I expressed my views without safeguards. I say it's private. Should it be stolen? There should not be two ethical codes."

Then he hung up the telephone, with a parting insult.

LAST-MINUTE LOAN — Nine days before President Ford turns over the government to Jimmy Carter, the Ford administration intends to commit the United States to a huge, $5 billion foreign loan program for underdeveloped lands.

The deal is scheduled to be sealed on January 11 at a meeting of the International Development Association in faraway Kuwait. The United States will be represented by Gerald Parsky, a fast-talking, young assistant treasury secretary.

His critics charge that he has suddenly become generous with the taxpayers' billions as a way of ingratiating himself with the foreign banking community, which has been pushing the loan. Thus Parsky, upon his return to private investment banking, will have many foreign financiers in his debt, the critics allege.

From Kuwait, Parsky vehemently denied the charge. "Absolutely not," he barked over the trans-Atlantic phone. He said Carter's representatives would be consulted and that the decision to commit the $5 billion was "not final."

Yet an outraged House Banking Chairman Henry Reuss, D.-Wis., has written a private protest letter to Treasury Secretary William Simon about it. Reuss urged that the negotiations "be cancelled and rescheduled when the new administration takes office. Only in this way can we . . . avoid any international confrontation or embarrassment which might ensue if the outgoing administration were to make commitments with which the new administration is not in accord."

Not to attend the Kuwait meeting, Simon told us, would appear to the underdeveloped countries to be "an act of bad faith."

Your doctor intimidated

Doctor bills are higher than ever and going higher yet — if only because the doctor has to have extra income to pay his higher-than-ever malpractice insurance premium.

Why, after all these generations, is everybody suddenly deciding to sue the doctor? There are four reasons:
—Incompetent doctors.
—Unethical lawyers.
—Greedy people.
—The increasingly impersonal doctor-patient relationship.

Who could imagine suing the old-time friend-of-the-family doctor?

And there is another factor. Powerful new drugs and sophisticated new surgical techniques are often tried on patients who formerly had to be given up on.

And when the techniques fail — and most do fail — the tendency is to assume it's the doctor's fault.

The average American family now makes 12 trips a year to the doctor. The cost, in fees, drugs and tests, is more than $400 a year. Two-thirds of those trips to the doctor are unnecessary, each family could save $300 a year.

Probably 3 million surgical operations are performed each year — unnecessarily.

A Cornell study confirms that fully 13 percent of patients who are advised by their physicians to have surgery — don't need it.

Then why all this additional — and more-expensive — medical treatment? Your doctor is intimidated.

He is afraid NOT to operate.

There is another voice whispering in his ear — the voice of the insurance man — telling him that if he does NOT give all those additional (and frequently superfluous) tests . . .

If he does NOT recommend an operation — and any symptom shows up later — the doctor may be sued for malpractice.

So the frightened doctor adds and charges you for much additional testing and treatment — including X rays — because he is afraid not to.

Doctors last year ordered 67 percent more X rays (with the potential to do more harm than good), 66 percent more lab tests, 51 percent more specialist consultations — and you paid for these unnecessarily expanded medical services.

Understand, malpractice lawsuits are not paid by your doctor.

The doctor merely adds enough additional to what he charges for his services to pay for malpractice insurance.

So it's the patients who pay.

Last year every trip you made to the doctor he had to charge you an additional $1.24 to pay his insurance premium.

And the American Medical Assn. says you'll be paying an even greater "penalty" this year.

Just in jest

Christmas giving at best is something of a problem, but fortunately this year there are innovations that could make your shopping a care-free outing. — For the juvenile delinquents on your list there is a new game on the market that will undoubtedly make a big hit with discriminating young punks.

It is called "Lie, Cheat and Steal." — And for the hard to please man about town, what could be more appropriate than a game called "Seduction?" — But maybe your problem is what to give a subteenager. Here, too, there is something new for Christmas 1976. — a shrunken head apple sculpture set.

—So with all those brand new gift ideas going for you, why worry? However, should none of them seem to quite fill the bill, you can always get out from under by giving the adults a book of 10 deluxe admission tickets to their local porno theater, and the children a fistful of coupons redeemable for merchandise at any 7-11 store.

A dishonorable abuse of power

WASHINGTON — (NEA) — No sooner had the Democrats seized the White House with promises of restoring confidence in the political system than one of their own was blackening that system anew.

Wendell Anderson, governor of Minnesota, is the culprit. Hisses and fie on him. Faced with the duty of naming a Senate replacement for Walter Mondale, who is stepping up to lower things, Anderson decided there was only one man in the state with enough competence and enough stature to replace Mondale: Wendell Anderson.

Ergo the governor has conceived an unhappy plan to further his own interests. He will resign his present office, allowing Lt. Gov. Rudy Perpich to take over. Perpich will then select Anderson — who, after all, will be out of work and essentially a wasted resource — to be the new junior senator from the land of 10,000 lakes.

Anderson is aware there will be criticism of his action. Already a poll has been conducted indicating that 55 per cent of the Minnesotans questioned do not want the governor to elect himself to the Senate. But since the polls have no authority, and since politics is often the art of preventing people from engaging in what is their own business, Anderson insists all skepticism will be disregarded.

"I'm sure some will react negatively," the governor says, "but I hope that my work in the Senate will earn their support and justify my election to a full term in 1978." Displaying no shame at all, Anderson is already campaigning for a Senate career, and what with the incumbent's advantage he is bestowing on himself he'll likely get it.

That the Minnesotan has yearned for a national pulpit has been apparent for years. A one-time Olympic hockey player and attorney, he has been in political office for 18 of his 43 years, and has been touted as a comer since early this decade. Curly haired, blue eyed, moderate in all things including philosophy, he is a prodigy of Hubert Humphrey and a ripening favorite of his mighty party.

He is a bit too Democratic, perhaps. At the past party convention, as chairman of the platform committee, Anderson fought hard for a rule — a loyalty oath, really — which would force all candidates to promise allegiance to the eventual nominee. Thus he wanted Jimmy Carter and company to swear fidelity even if George Wallace was the pick. This he argued was for the good of the party, hence the Republic.

But extremism in defense of Democratic unity isn't a vice, not to those who can add registration figures. And it is this sort of devotion which has led Democrats to believe Anderson is too big for a mere gubernatorial chair. With his good looks and fortuitous attitude, they say, he could be president some day. But not by staying in Minnesota; governors have a way of working themselves into obscurity.

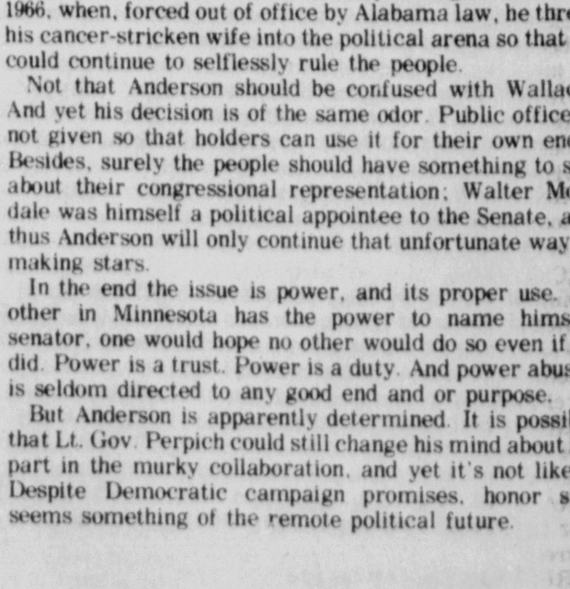

And so, by golly, it is not just for the good of Minnesota that Wendell Anderson is using his office for personal gain, it is in effect for the good future of America. This no doubt is the same rationale used by George Wallace in 1966, when, forced out of office by Alabama law, he threw his cancer-stricken wife into the political arena so that he could continue to selflessly rule the people.

Not that Anderson should be confused with Wallace. And yet his decision is of the same odor. Public office is not given so that holders can use it for their own ends. Besides, surely the people should have something to say about their congressional representation; Walter Mondale was himself a political appointee to the Senate, and thus Anderson will only continue that unfortunate way of making stars.

In the end the issue is power, and its proper use. No other in Minnesota has the power to name himself senator, one would hope no other would do so even if he did. Power is a trust. Power is a duty. And power abused is seldom directed to any good end and or purpose.

But Anderson is apparently determined. It is possible that Lt. Gov. Perpich could still change his mind about his part in the murky collaboration, and yet it's not likely. Despite Democratic campaign promises, honor still seems something of the remote political future.

Put a song in cricket's heart

DEAR DR. MILLER: I keep my crickets in separate cages because I've heard that sometimes they turn into cannibals. Do crickets sing when they're happy? If that's so, then mine must not be very happy because Jimmy, my favorite cricket, has only sung once. How can I get him to sing more? — A.O.

DEAR A.O.: Male crickets sing (rub their forewings together to produce their calling song) primarily in anticipation. That is, to call the female. Since female crickets secrete a chemical which stimulates song-releasing in the male, one way to encourage Jimmy "Caruso" Cricket to sing his little heart out would be to carpet his cage with papers from other cricket cages, some of which should contain females.

DEAR DR. MILLER: Since Tubby's an inside dog, I have plenty of time to notice such things. Right now, it's the feet and nose I'm talking about. He always used to have a cold nose and warm feet. Lately, though, his nose has always been warm and his feet cold. Why, do you suppose? By the way, the floor isn't cold or anything like that. — N.M.

DEAR N.M.: Tubby's turnabout could indicate a fever (the continuously warm nose) and possibly poor circulation (the cold feet). Conversely, those findings could be insignificant. If Tubby's feeling fine, there's no worry. If he's not, he should be checked by his doctor — and soon.

DEAR DR. MILLER: We've only had one baby in our house for the last six years, our cat, Tootsie. Soon, though, there will be another of the sparser-haired, diaper-wearing variety. Tootsie's a jealous, pampered darling. How can I get her to accept my new child with good grace? Please don't tell me it's hopeless. — H.B.

DEAR H.B.: Difficult, perhaps, but definitely not hopeless. Avoiding Tootsie tantrums will be easier if she's allowed to meet, to see and sniff (but not to slurp or cuddle) the new baby as soon as possible after its arrival home. The sooner a cat's curiosity is satisfied regarding a newcomer, the better. It will be easier then for her to understand the new center of attention, where the baby sounds emenate, and generally to reduce her confusion. You'll have the tough task of trying to pay even more attention to Tootsie to reassure her, while having less time to accomplish it. Above all, try to convince her that being Number Two isn't all that bad.

For Wednesday, Dec. 1, 1976

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Partial successes are likely today because you'll have too many irons in the fire. Settle on just one or two things, but do them well.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) You have a tendency today to make unreasonable demands of loved ones. Your feelings could be hurt when they're unable to comply with your wishes.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Treat all your friends impartially today. Playing favorites must be avoided at all costs, or you'll turn off someone you're fond of.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Be careful not to tread on too many toes today in order to satisfy your ambitions. Your victory would be a hollow one.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Associates may agree with your ideas today, but express other opinions behind your back. Be careful who you put your trust in.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Business conditions are a bit trickier than usual for you today. Move warily. You could involve yourself in something costly.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Don't make concessions today just for the sake of expediency. Give-and-take is a two-way street.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Attend to your own responsibilities today before assuming those of others. Spreading yourself too thin will help no one.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) If you follow your prearranged plans today, things should work advantageously. However, you're likely to deviate a bit and cause problems.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan 19) Keep family affairs confidential today. Persons who don't share your roof should not be let in on family secrets.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) People who don't readily agree with you today tend to awaken your wrath. You would fare better if you try to understand their views.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) If you're too generous with the wrong person today you could feel like a patsy later on. Avoid anyone who formerly tried to take advantage of you.

Your Birthday, Dec. 1, 1976

Lay long-range plans this year for that which you hope to achieve in the future. Seeds wisely sown will bear a harvest when you'll appreciate it the most.

Ann Landers

Do you measure up to class?

Dear Ann Landers: Several years ago you printed a definition of "class." I cut it out and reread it from time to time, measuring myself (as objectively as I could) to see how I stacked up.

I mislaid the clipping a few months ago and now I feel the need for some self-reassessment. Will you please hunt up that column and run it again? Thank you in advance. — Measuring Mysel In Atherton, Calif.

Dear Ath: Glad you asked. Perhaps others who see it for the first time will also "measure themselves."

WHAT IS CLASS?

Class never runs scared. It is sure-footed and confident in the knowledge that you can meet life head on and handle whatever comes along.

Jacob had it. Esau didn't. Symbolically, we can look to Jacob's wrestling match with the angel. Those who have class have wrestled with their own personal "angel" and won a victory that marks them thereafter.

Class never makes excuses. It takes its lumps and learns from past mistakes.

Class is considerate of others. It knows that good manners is nothing more than a series of petty sacrifices.

Class bespeaks an aristocracy that has nothing to do with ancestors or money. The most affluent blue-blood can be totally without class while the descendant of a Welsh miner may ooze class from every port.

Class never tries to build itself up by tearing others down Class is ALREADY up and need not strive to look better by making others look worse.

Class can " walk with kings and keep its virtue and talk with crowds and keep the common touch." Everyone is comfortable with the person who has class — because he is comfortable with himself.

If you have class you don't need much of anything else. If you don't have it, no matter what else you do have — it doesn't make much difference.

Dear Ann Landers: I don't know if you are a bridge player but I think you can give me some good advice whether you know the game or not.

Last night my husband Herb and I were playing with my sis and her husband. They are excellent bridge players and usually beat us but we enjoy the challenge nevertheless.

Herb has a habit of overbidding his hand and I have to watch him. Last night he made a reckless bid of six spades. All I said was, "Either you are crazy or I'm blind." He gave me a nasty look and snarled, "Why don't you just keep you mouth shut and play the hand?"

We didn't make it and he was furious.

After my sis and her husband left, Herb said, "That dumb remark of yours cost us the game. I don't want to play cards with you ever again."

I believe I'M the one who should be angry — not him. What do you think, Ann Landers? — Grandly Slammed

Dear Grandly: Card fights can produce a dandy climate for all sorts of battles — unrelated to the game. I see 52 good reasons why you should never play cards with your husband — Throw in the deck — permanently.

Erma Bombeck

She also is misunderstood

We have one child who is misunderstood . . . literally.

From the day he uttered his first word, "Bweaba" (meaning there's a rainbow around my diaper) to present day, no one seems to know what he's talking about.

I don't know why, but I'm the only one in the family who can translate. When he was a toddler, he stood for hours at his father's elbow shouting, "Me no, na, noo noo" and his father would shrug and say, "What's he want?"

"Well, what do you think he wants?" I'd say irritably.

"He's either telling us the dog hates cold spaghetti, he hates the encyclopedia we bought for him, or he just swallowed his pacifier."

"He is trying to tell you he dropped his cookie down his drawers. I mean, how dense can a father be?"

As he got older, things got worse.

"That kid has to have his mouth fixed," said my husband.

"What now?"

"He just told me he has to know all of his bowels by tomorror because the teacher is having an English elimination."

"He's always had trouble with his V's," I said.

"That isn't all he has trouble with. If he goes around talking like that, they're going to put him in a class where he makes recipe holders out of wooden blocks and clothes pins all day."

"All he's ever tried to do," I sighed, "is imitate the rest of the family and he doesn't know how to pronounce the words yet."

"I'll say," said his brother. "He told the whole bus the other morning that you were a syndicated Communist."

"And he told everyone his teacher had hubcaps put on her teeth so they would look better," said his sister.

"And he told a client of mine on the phone the other night that I couldn't come to the phone because I was unapproachable. Really, something has to be done. At a football game the other night he yelled out, 'All we need now is one perversion and we win the game."

"What's the matter with that?" I snapped. "I told him myself one player had a mucilage separation in his shoulder and another was having trouble with his nymph gland and with the quarterback having a sensuous shoulder, we needed all the perversions we could get!"

You should have seen my family sit up and look at me. I guess it's because I don't lose my temper too often.

Dr. Lamb

How to stop a nosebleed

DEAR DR. LAMB — What does one do to stop a nosebleed? It's very dry in our office and I find that I'm getting nosebleeds more often, especially in the winter. I know you have to apply pressure to the side of the nostril and pinch the bridge of the nose hard, but do you put your head forward or back? I don't like the blood flowing down my throat, so I would appreciate it if you could help me. Maybe a lot of people would like to know the correct way to treat a nosebleed.

DEAR READER — It makes a lot of difference whether the nosebleed is caused from getting hit in the nose with a baseball or from a ruptured blood vessel from high blood pressure.

For the garden variety of nosebleeds the soft tip of the nose should be pinched shut on both sides and held that way for 15 to 20 minutes.

You'll do better sitting up and you can lean forward a bit to help prevent blood from flowing down your throat. However, when the tip of the nose is closed and the nose fills with blood it will flow out the back of the nose down the throat regardless of how you hold your head.

And don't blow your nose for at least several hours after it has stopped bleeding.

You may need to pack the front of the nose with gauze. Leave the end of the gauze strip sticking out the end of the nose so it can be easily removed.

It does not do any good to pinch the bridge of the nose. The hard bony structure cannot be squeezed down to shut off a bleeder.

If you can't control the bleeding you will need to see a doctor. Bleeding from the back of the nose sometimes requires a post nasal pack that the doctor will have to put in place.

Areas of blood vessels at the surface inside the nose that tend to bleed repeatedly can sometimes be cauterized and hence removed.

One of the most common causes for nosebleeds is a dry lining of the nose. I suspect that is your problem. This also leads to "nose picking" which in turn leads to bleeding. A good trick for people with a dry nasal lining is to lubricate the inside of the nose. Just take a small cotton swab and put a little petroleum jelly on it. Now apply the jelly all over the inside of the nose. Let it stay there a while before you blow your nose. The lubricant will soften the lining and prevent drying. This procedure done every day may solve a dry nose problem and prevent recurrent nosebleeds.

Incidentally, bleeding from the back of the nose that requires a post nasal pack is relatively serious, associated with a four to five per cent death rate. The pack itself may be part of the problem. Drs. Anthony J. Geroulis and William J. Powell of the University of Chicago have had good success in tying off an artery to that area (internal maxillary artery) with no deaths or complications in more than 29 patients.

Don't miss out on experiences

Recently, I enjoyed one of those rare nights when I had a date with my two youngest daughters. My wife was out of town speaking at a women's conference. So that morning I took my two little girls and I said, "Tonight will be my date with you girls. Pick any restaurant in Southern California and I'll take you there."

"Any one?"

"Yes." I enthused, "I'm splurging." And I rattled off a few fancy restaurants that I thought would impress them. I told them to think about it during the day and decide together on a restaurant.

That afternoon, they came home from school all excited. They were going to their favorite restaurant alone with their daddy! So I asked them, "Have you made a decision?" They answered, "Yes," which I found difficult to believe.

"What is it? Which restaurant?"

"Well, we don't think you'll want to go there, dad."

"What do you mean I won't want to go there?" I protested, adding, "If you pick out a restaurant, I'm sure I'll love it. Where is it? Which restaurant?" And finally they told me they wanted to go to one of the local hot dog stands. It had a fancy name, but I had never heard of it. I didn't even know where it was. They willingly gave me directions and off we went.

It so happens that I'm not particularly fond of hot dogs. And that's about all I could see on the menu. But Gretchen, my 9 year old, was enthusiastic! "You must try the chili and cheese dog, Daddy, you'll love it." (I have to come to the conclusion that when God created my stomach it was not designed for chili!) But at any rate, I endured to the end.

They told their mother the next morning, "Boy Dad loved that restaurant. He must take you there soon."

I must admit, we had a beautiful time together — just the three of us eating hot dogs. A simple meal, but a beautiful and profound fellowship.

Maybe Faith in God sounds as simplistic to you as hot dogs did to me that evening. And you may be tempted to snobbishly dismiss religious ideas as culturally or artistically beneath your tastes. All the while you might be missing a truly profound and beautiful experience. For faith can bring you to God and God will satisfy and nourish your whole being like nothing else.

How daiquiri got its name

In 1898, some bigwigs developed an iron ore mine outside of Santiago, Cuba. Next to the entrance, they set up a barrel filled with rum, lime juice, sugar and ice, so each of the miner at day's end could down a glassful before heading home. While on an inspection tour, Bethlehem Steel's President Charles M. Schwab took a sip of the concoction, liked it, and carried th recipe home. His subsequent house guests liked it, too. And when they asked him what it was called, he named it most spontaneously in honor of that Cuban iron mine, the Daiquiri.

At what age does a women reach the apex of her beauty? Argument continues as to that. But surveys repeatedly have shown that the majority of people think the peak of pulchritude comes about at age 30.

And to that lengthening list of never-die one-liners, add: "Old bakers never die, they're just not kneaded anymore."

SLOT MACHINES

Q. "Do the manufacturers of those slot machines called one-armed bandits make any other devices not for gambling?"

A. Do indeed. Postage stamp dispensers. Gum ball and candy venders. Automatic money changers.

The most experienced range cooks of the Old West's cattle country also were some of the most experienced scouts. Why is because they always took off ahead of the herd so the evening meal would be waiting for the drovers at the next grazing spot.

THEATER MARQUEES

What's needed around here on theater marquees is a little imagination. That's what I said. Example: "Earthquake" an "The Towering Inferno" would be a double feature that could be billed as "Shake and Bake." Clients suggest these, too: "The Sailor Who Fell from Grace with the Sea" and "The Man Who Fell to Earth" could be billed as "Two Falls Out of Three." Also: "The Man Who Loved Cat Dancing" and "Cat on a Hot Tin Roof" could be billed as "Here, Kitty, Kitty!" Plus: "The Shootist" and "Bambi" could be billed as "The Buck Stops Here." Further: "Blackbird" and "Shampoo" could be billed as "Birdbath."

A 19th century scholar named George Miller Beard whimsically assayed the decades of a lifetime as though they were metals. The twenties, he said are bronze. The thirties, gold. The forties, silver. The fifties, iron. And the sixties, tin.

One of the most dependable statistics in thoroughbred horse racing is that 33 per cent of all such races nationwide are won by the favorites.

Q. "HOW ARE SHOE SIZES DETERMINED?"

PATRICK MEADOWS
CUPERTINO, CA

A. SHOE SIZES ARE FIGURED BY AN OLD MEASURE CALLED THE "BARLEY CORN" (A THIRD OF AN INCH). A SIZE 10 SHOE IS ONE-THIRD OF AN INCH LONGER THAN A SIZE 9, AND SO ON.

Shoe size is based on an old measure called the "barleycorn," though we no longer use the term.

England's king Edward II originated shoe sizes in 1324. He decreed that 3 barleycorns (grains of barley), placed end to end, equaled one inch.

The longest normal foot measured 39 barleycorns or 13 inches, and was called size 13.

Smaller sizes were numbered down from this size, each by a third of an inch.

A size 12 shoe is therefore one barleycorn (a third of an inch) shorter than a size 13. A size 10 shoe is one inch (3 barleycorns) longer than a size 7.

Between most of the sizes, half sizes are made. Children's shoes run from 0 to 13. Adults' sizes begin again at 1, instead of at 14. Usually there are 5 widths for each size — A, B, C, D and E.

The difference between each width is one-twelfth of an inch.

In fine shoes there are also widths smaller than A and larger than E: AA, AAA and so on, and EE.

Almanac globe or other fine prize will be awarded to the first youngster sending in a question used here. Send your question and your age to Johnny Wonder, (c/o this newspaper), Box 1335 (DA), Santa Cruz, CA 95061.

COLUMBIA, S.C. — It was like playing General Motors with hustle.

For the first time since Cal Poly started playing topnotch major college foes on the road last year, the Broncos were dominated. Host South Carolina, which operates a basketball factory, put it to the Broncs 86-64, here Monday night before 9,416 adoring South Carolina Coliseum fans.

Even though Poly was never in this game, Bronco coach Don Hogan felt his touring cagers were paid a supreme compliment here while learning a valuable lesson.

South Carolina played like the game was for the National Championship in presenting veteran coach Frank McGuire his 490th career victory.

"The highest compliment a team could pay us was done by South Carolina tonight. They played us as if we were the number one team in the nation," Hogan said about the contest.

"We haven't been dominated the way we were tonight," Hogan continued. "None of these top teams have played us as hard as this team did."

McGuire, who is considered close to a saint here, agreed. "The best thing I saw tonight was our desire. I told the team before the game I wanted effort, and I thought their effort was outstanding," McGuire said.

Ask how well his team played, McGuire added. "We played as well as we could. We can't play much better than this."

Hogan hopes his team learned about intensity.

"Were finding out who is willing to work hard to get the job done," the Poly coach said. "That's what were on this trip for. It's just a matter of time before we click."

McGuire, opening his 13th season as USC (Eastern style) Certainly had his team ready.

It seemed like the Irishman was especially anixous to have his team surpass Dayton's 10-point victory margin over the Broncos on the first game of the trip.

At least he refered to that game often enough which is saying how tough it is to be an independent.

Dayton and South Carolina our both independents so McGuire already is thinking about comparative scores.

At his post-game press conference, McGuire again mentioned how he wants to get back into the Atlantic Coast Conference.

"I hope were in some type of conference so we don't have to play such a stupid schedule," McGuire added, referring to the fact his team must play eight ranked teams in the next 11 games.

Basketball is king here.

For instance, McGuire has four assistant coaches with two assigned to handle recruiting and scouting.

The University provides all the comforts it can for its athletes with a separate plush dormitory and dinning hall.

Without any pro sports competition, Carolina has all the media coverage that a university could ask for and they list all financial contributors which takes up eight pages in the program.

Its almost impossible for a division II team from California to compete with all this.

As far as the game itself, it was no contest.

After Poly took a 2-0 lead on center Don Johnson's opening basket, the Gamecocks took command by sprinting to a 21-8 margin.

USC had a healthy 41-28 at halftime and had its biggest advantage at 73-48 with 7:09 on the clock.

All five starters scored in double figures for the Gamecocks with JV transfer Karlton Hilton and Nate Davis leading the way with 16 and 14 points respectively.

Poly again had all 10 players making the scoreboard.

James Webb and Henry Randolph had 10 apiece to share the scoring lead with Randolph, last year's top JC rebounder in California, also grabbing eight rebounds.

"Henry played exceptionally well tonight," Hogan said. "He was battling people for the ball all night. He wanted it as badly as they did."

Poly shot only 35.9 percent in making 28 of 78 field goals while South Carolina connected on 53.1 (34-64). Both teams grabbed 46 rebounds.

Notre Dame is the next stop Wednesday night. And there is never much question about the Irish having intensity before the home student body.

Meanwhile, Poly is taking a beating in the press on this trip.

A Columbia reporter wrote," California Poly Pomona sounds like one of those Easy-Off Fabric Softener soap suds ladies golf tournaments."

Touring with the Broncos

ON THE ROAD WITH CAL POLY — Cal Poly's basketball team is in the midst of an interesting week of seeing college basketball at its best.

Coach Don Hogan's Broncos have already played Dayton and South Carolina and face their toughest challenge yet Wednesday night against Notre Dame. A Thursday night stop at Kansas State on the way home completes the journey.

It's the type of basketball trip players dream about.

Dayton, South Carolina and Notre Dame all play in new arenas seating more than 10,000 fans and all three are known for high basketball interest.

Kansas State plays in a much older fieldhouse but it was one of the first built to seat over more than 10,000 fans and has long been one of the powers in the Big Eight Conference along with neighbor Kansas.

Hogan is also getting a chance to match wits with some of the nation's top names in coaching.

South Carolina's Frank McGuire entered the season with 489 victories to rank second among active coaches to DePaul's Ray Meyer.

McGuire enjoys a 72.2 per cent winning percentage in his career which includes a NCAA championship at North Carolina in 1957.

Notre Dame's Digger Phelps has a 68.6 winning percentage and Kansas State's Jack Hartman, who formerly coached at Southern Illinois when Walt Frazier was his star player, enjoys a 68.4 per cent record. Dayton's Don Donoher has a 65.3 per cent mark.

Hogan also has his hands full matching his opponents' wardrobes. Phelps has a reputation for being the best-dressed basketball coach but Hogan just might give him some competition.

Poly is also planning a later trip to San Francisco and Nevada Reno. Assistant coach Allen Van Winkle already has Stanford, California, Vanderbilt, Ohio State and Missouri on next year's schedule.

Playing in areas where there is good media coverage is a good advertisement for both Poly and the city of Pomona.

And Hogan makes sure his players conduct themselves well on the road.

NOTES FROM HERE AND THERE:

Former Garey High basketball star Delbert McDonald is penciled in as a starter as Wyoming opens its basketball season under new coach Don DeVoe. McDonald, a sophomore, led Garey to the CIF 3A championship in 1975 despite missing the championship game because of an injury.

McDonald was the P-B's Player of the Year in 1975.

Things aren't so good for some of our local products.

A knee problem will probably keep former Mt. San Antonio College star George Schader out of action for the season at Stanford. Schader averaged 13.7 points and seven rebounds for the Cardinals last year and his injury is a rough blow at the Farm.

Mark McQuaid, an All-Valley selection last year at Chaffey High, will miss the first two weeks of Idaho State's season because of a broken hand suffered in practice.

NEVADA LAS VEGAS, enjoying another good football season, is pushing former Chino High star Randy Rizo for small college All-America honors.

Rizo, was selected the valley's Defensive Player of the Year in 1973, led the Rebels all year in defensive statistics. UNLV says Rizo is strong (bench press 495 pounds), fast (runs 4.8 in the 40 yard dash) and has good size (6-0, 259 pounds).

THE UNIVERSITY OF ARIZONA is making a strong bid to join the Pacific-8 Conference.

The university's public relations department says Arizona is hoping to join its "natural" partners in the Pacific-10.

Arizona claims 30 players of its 97-man roster are California products. There are also 12,341 Arizona alumni living in California and there are presently more than 1,500 students from California.

Dorsett claims Heisman

NEW YORK (AP) — Tony Dorsett, the University of Pittsburgh's brilliant running back who said he should have won the Heisman Trophy last year, finally won it today and gained recognition as the top college football player in the country.

Officials made the announcement before Dorsett's arrival. His plane had been delayed en route from Pittsburgh.

Dorsett, a 5-foot-11, 192-pound senior from Aliquippa, Pa., who has rushed for more yards in a season and career and scored more points than any player in major college history, became the 26th running back to win the Heisman in the 42-year history of the award.

The Heisman is presented annually by the Downtown Athletic Club of New York to "the outstanding college football player in the United States."

Dorsett was a landslide winner over runner-up Ricky Bell, Southern California running back, and Rob Lytle, a running back from the University of Michigan.

Dorsett received 701 first place votes, 112 for second place and 30 for third place for a total of 2,357 points. Bell received 73 firsts, 485 seconds and 157 thirds for 1,346 points. Lytle's totals were 35-85-138 for 413 points.

"I watched him on television," said Bell, who gained 75 yards on 21 carries against Notre Dame on Saturday while switching from running tailback to blocking fullback for a good part of the game. "Dorsett really deserves the Heisman Trophy. I can't beat his performance this season, but I gave him a run for his money to the fifth game."

Bell had a fantastic 1,003 yards in his first five games, including 347 on 51 carries against Washington State, as he became only the second runner ever to hit the 1,000-yard mark in five games. But he was injured after gaining 68 yards on six carries against Oregon State the following week and didn't regain his early-season form until a 167-yard exhibition in the Rose Bowl showdown against UCLA.

Only three players other than quarterbacks and running backs have ever won the Heisman Trophy—two-way ends Larry Kelley of Yale in 1936 and Leon Hart of Notre Dame in 1949 and flanker Johnny Rodgers of Nebraska in 1972.

49ers 'silence' Vikes

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The San Francisco 49ers' Delvin Williams and Wilbur Jackson pierced Minnesota's proud defensive unit for 309 yards, leaving some of the Vikings speechless.

"What can I say? Anything would sound like sour grapes," All-Pro tackle Alan Page said, the sour taste of a 20-16 loss to the 49ers still in his mouth after Monday night's nationally televised National Football League game.

"We got our backsides kicked," said the more talkative Fran Tarkenton. "We've been getting our backsides kicked the last six weeks, even though we've been winning."

The 49ers took a four-game losing streak against the playoff-bound Vikings, and rookie Scott Bull was at quarterback in place of injured Jim Plunkett to direct the offense which totaled a mere 88 yards a week earlier against Los Angeles.

"We wanted to run at them and that's what we did. We ran it straight up the middle," said Williams who totaled 153 yards despite sitting out most of the last period with a sprained ankle.

"Our plan was to run the ball and to pass as little as possible, to keep the pressure off Scott," added Williams who, with 1,012 yards for the season, is within 37 yards of Joe Perry's team record of 1,049 yards, which has stood since 1954.

"The line doing the job it did made things easy," said Jackson, whose 30 rushes netted 156 yards.

Bull, in his first NFL start, passed only eight times and completed three for 32 yards. He appraised his performance as "good, considering the game plan."

With their running success, the 49ers made their record 7-5, and at least postponed their elimination from the National Football Conference West race. The NFC Central champion Vikings are 9-2-1, no longer claiming the best record in the conference.

The 49ers' first touchdown drive, ending with Jackson's two-yard blast into the end zone, was accomplished on eight running plays. A 24-yard run by Jackson set up Steve Mike-Mayer's 45-yard field goal which made the score 10-0.

"But we got the pass when we needed it," former Arkansas star Bull noted, referring to his 16-yard completion to Gene Washington on a 83-yard drive late in the second period.

Tarkenton's second-quarter touchdown passes of 18 yards to Sammy White and eight yards to Ahmad Rashad had given the Vikings a 13-10 lead. The 49ers went ahead to stay when Bull leaned into the end zone 41 seconds before the half.

The only second half scoring came on field goals by Minnesota's Fred Cox and the 49ers' Mike-Mayer. The Vikings' Chuck Foreman, whose 93 yards put him at 1,035 for the year, was stopped on a fourth-and-one situation at the 49ers' 15-yard line with two minutes left, and the game ended when Tarkenton overthrew Rashad in the end zone on a 33-yard pass.

Defensive tackle Cleveland Elam had blocked Cox' second extra point attempt, creating the four-point spread at the end which eliminated the possibility of a game-tying field goal and overtime.

"If Rashad had caught that last ball, I would have walked off with my head down. It would have been an injustice for us to win," said Tarkenton.

Co-winner Metzger worried about job

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — Butch Metzger, a relief pitcher by default and a star to his own surprise, shares the National League Rookie of the Year Award. But he is wondering what his job will be next season.

The 24-year-old right-hander of the San Diego Padres tied with Cincinnati pitcher Pat Zachry Monday in voting for the award by two sportswriters from each of the NL's 12 cities. It was the first tie in the award's 25-year history.

But Metzger said he feels insecure, because the Padres just paid a bundle of money to sign a considerably better-known right-handed reliever, former Oakland A's ace Rollie Fingers, as a free agent.

"They're going to be paying him a couple million bucks and me a few odd thousand," Metzger said in an interview from his parents' home Monday night. "Who are they going to go to in a tight situation?

"That's what I'm probably going to find out this spring. I think I might even end up as trade bait ... Too bad Rollie Fingers is not a real good hitter. We need some guys who can get some RBIs (runs batted in)."

Whatever his questions about the future, Metzger left no question about his performance this year.

He pitched in 77 games, a league record for a rookie, and had an 11-4 record, 16 saves, and a 2.93 earned run average. He led the league in games finished, 62, and won 10 straight games over a span of 3½ months.

San Diego Manager John McNamara said Metzger did not get all he deserved.

"He should have won it (the rookie award) outright," McNamara said. "The only reason Zachry got a share of it is because he pitched for a team that won the pennant and the World Series. You can't compare what they did for their teams."

"I think I should have won it," Metzger agreed, "but I couldn't have shared it with a better pitcher. I'm still very satisfied."

And the youngster was as surprised at his showing as were the hitters by his overhand fast ball.

"I always believed I was good enough to pitch in the big leagues and do an adequate job, but this was something else," he said.

After five years in the San Francisco farm system, Metzger was virtually a throw-in in the 1974 trade that sent him and Tito Fuentes to the Padres for Derrel Thomas.

"I'm sure the Giants have had second thoughts, but at the time, I wasn't one of the shining stars," he recalled. "They had John Montefusco, Pete Falcone and Ed Halicki, and I was expendable."

After spending 1975 with Hawaii, Metzger said, McNamara told him the only way he could make the Padres was as a reliever, a job he never had tried before.

CIF sites, times set

Exact sites and times have been set for Friday's CIF playoff games involving the Damien and San Dimas football teams.

The Damien gridders will play Villa Park at El Modena High's stadium in Orange. San Dimas will also be on the road, as the Saints will trek all the way to Thousand Oaks High to play Agoura. Both those quarterfinal playoff tilts will start at 8 p.m.

The San Dimas-Agoura contest had originally been slated for Pierce College but was switched Monday at the request of host Agoura.

Tickets for the games are available at the Damien and San Dimas student stores, and will be on sale through Friday. Prices are $2.50 for adults and $1 for children under 12.

Jackson likes Yankees' hustle

NEW YORK (AP) — In the end, it was Owner George Steinbrenner's salesmanship and the lure of playing in the media capital of the world that led Reggie Jackson to the New York Yankees.

"The reason I'm a Yankee is that George Steinbrenner outhustled everybody else," said Jackson, who reportedly accepted a $3 million, five-year deal Monday to join the American League champions.

"Steinbrenner's like me," said Jackson, "a little bit crazy and a hustler."

And because the Yankee owner has a good deal of charm to boot, Jackson settled for less money from the Yankees than he could have had elsewhere.

"Four clubs offered more money than the Yankees," said Gary Walker, Jackson's agent.

But none of those teams had Steinbrenner doing the offering.

The Jackson agreement came 10 days after the Yankees paid a reported $2 million for a six-year contract with another free agent, pitcher Don Gullett.

That $5 million investment rivaled the amount spent by the California Angels as top dollar in the free agent sweepstakes. But the Angels came away with three players for their money— outfielders Joe Rudi and Don Baylor and infielder Bobby Grich.

Originally, Grich had been one of the Yankees' high priorities in this auction of some of baseball's top talent. President Gabe Paul wanted him to solve the Yankees' shortstop problem.

But Steinbrenner preferred Jackson, a home run slugger with charisma. And Jackson, as it turned out, preferred New York.

"Other clubs offered more money," said Jackson. "But I think certain things are a lot more meaningful than money."

One of those things was Steinbrenner, who apparently caught Jackson's fancy with his personal, man-to-man approach to bargaining.

"Money's not going to get you everywhere you want to go," said Jackson. "Everybody thinks athletes are going for the big money. I wanted to take less to prove a point."

There were other factors, of course. The Yankees are defending AL champions, a proven winning team with the Most Valuable Player, Thurman Munson, heading a solid lineup. They would seem to have a good chance to be back near the top next year and Jackson enjoys the spotlight that follows a winning team. He could not have had that with the two other main contenders for his services, the Montreal Expos and San Diego Padres.

"I was envious watching the World Series last October," said the slugger, who served as a television commentator during the Series. "I should still have been playing. I think I can alleviate that feeling playing for the Yankees, riding on Munson's shirt-tails."

Munson, who attended the Jackson announcement along with outfielder Roy White and Yankee Coaches Yogi Berra and Elston Howard, flashed a wide grin at the remark.

Sandoval slated to fight Thurs.

LOS ANGELES — Unbeaten Pomona fighter Alberto Sandoval returns to action Thursday at Olympic Auditorium.

Sandoval, sporting a 14-0 record with nine knockouts, will face tough Jose del Rio in a 10-round bantamweight main event. Del Rio has won 24 of 31 bouts with 14 knockouts. He is the California Super Bantamweight champion, but his title will not be on the line.

NFL division titles still up in the air

By Associated Press

It is, in a peculiar sort of way, a win-it-all-or-else situation for the Pittsburgh Steelers. Either they win the American Conference's Central Division title or else they watch the National Football League playoffs on television.

Two division titles already have been clinched—Minnesota in the National Conference Central Division and Oakland in the AFC West.

The next two to be decided are in the NFC. In the West, Los Angeles is a victory away from clinching, needing only a triumph over Atlanta or Detroit or a loss by second-place San Francisco. In the East, Dallas also is one victory away and can take the title by beating either Philadelphia or Washington.

That would leave four playoff spots up for grabs—the titles in the AFC East and Central divisions and the two wild-card berths, going to the best runner-up team in each conference. The NFC wild card will go to either St. Louis or Washington in the East since each team, at 8-4, is two games ahead of any other runner-up with two to play. If they end up tied, the Redskins get the playoff berth, having beaten St. Louis twice.

The AFC East is a two-team race between Baltimore, which already has clinched a playoff berth but not the title, and New England, which is one victory away from locking up the AFC's wild card. And it is New England's success which makes Pittsburgh's task difficult.

The Steelers, at 8-4, trail Cincinnati, 9-3, the AFC Central leader, by one game. They also trail New England, 9-3, by one game with two to play. And the Patriots will be favored to win their final two games, against New Orleans and Tampa Bay.

Thus, the AFC wild-card is a virtual certainty for the Pats. They still have a shot at the East title—but it is unlikely they will overtake the Colts, who play their last two games against St. Louis and Buffalo.

Even if the Steelers win their final two games against Tampa Bay and Houston and the Pats lose one, leaving them in a tie for the best runner-up spot in the AFC, the wild card goes to New England since it beat Pittsburgh 30-27 last Sept. 26.

Thus, the Steelers cannot count on a wild card. They have to win the division title. They have got to catch Cincinnati. And that is where Oakland gets into the act.

The Raiders, the winningest team in the league this season at 11-1, entertain the Bengals next Monday night.

If the Bengals win that game, they can just about consider the divisional crown theirs, since they will close the season as heavy favorites against the New York Jets. And two victories would keep them one game ahead of Pittsburgh, even if the Steelers also win two.

Trojans pace All-Coast team

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Hoping for a Rose Bowl victory and a possible national championship, the University of Southern California also picked up the bulk of the spots on the 1976 Associated Press All-West Coast team, including the No. 1 running back spot.

That went to Ricky Bell, the nation's third-leading rusher at the close of the regular season. Bell, a senior, was teamed with UCLA sophomore Theotis Brown and Brown's Bruin quarterback Jeff Dankworth in the imaginary backfield.

Seven USC players were chosen to the first offensive and defensive teams and seven more were named to the second teams.

Two Stanford players were named to the first offensive squad — wide receiver Tony Hill and tackle Alex Karakozoff.

The Cardinals' quarterback, Guy Benjamin, received serious attention for first-team honors.

California guard Ted Albrecht won a first team spot.

In one of the closest votes in years, Dankworth was chosen over Jack Thompson of Washington State, with Benjamin and Joe Roth of California very close behind.

Another Stanford player, powerful Duncan McColl, was named to the defensive first team for a second year in a row, as were Karakazoff and Hill.

But it was Southern Cal which polled the most votes, with UCLA's 9-1-1 squad polling the No. 2 number of ballots.

Besides Brown and Dankworth, other Bruins receiving first-team recognition were center Mitch Kahn, tight end Ricky Walker, linebacker Jerry Robinson and defensive back Oscar "Dr. Death" Edwards.

Four Trojans were named to the all-defensive first-team and two more nearly made it six. The USC linebackers of Rod Martin and Dave Lewis were obvious choices, but they were nearly joined by Eric Williams and Clay Matthews in the linebacking group.

However, voting again was close and Robinson, UCLA's outstanding sophomore, and San Diego's Travis Hitt, captain of the Aztecmen at his school, took those positions.

In all, nine Trojans defensive specialists were named to either the first or second teams, an indication of where USC's strength was this year.

Bell was an obvious choice as the No. 1 running back, but Brown got the second backfield berth perhaps because an injury slowed teammate Wendell Tyler toward the end of the year.

Tyler was named to the all coast second team for the second year in a row.

Sagehens drop home opener

Pomona-Pitzer dropped its home basketball opener, 77-62, to Hastings College of Nebraska Monday night.

Hastings won the UC San Diego Tourney this past weekend. Led by 6-8, 240-pound center Paul Bergman who scored 30 points, the visitors outrebounded the smaller Sagehens, 41-30, and dominated the boards.

Hastings shot 44 percent (31 of 71) while the 'Hens hit on only 36 percent of their shots (26 of 71). The game was even for the first 15 minutes. But the visitors outscored the Sagehens, 14-1, the last five minutes of the first half to take a 41-30 lead.

Guard Scott Pease led Pomona-Pitzer with 19 points and backcourt mate Roger Washington was next with 11.

Claremont-Mudd's home opener was its annual Alumni Game. The current varsity defeated the alumni, 83-74, with Stu Duvall and Ron Kasdorf each netting 17 points and Johnny Daniels 11. Bill Harmson led the Alumni with 11 points.

La Verne hosts Hastings tonight (8 p.m.). Pomona-Pitzer is at home vs. Ambassador Wednesday night (8 p.m.) and C-M will play Cal Baptist in the Redlands Tournament Thursday at 4:30 p.m.

Citrus' JRB hopes go down the tubes

PASADENA — Citrus College's slim hopes for the California berth in the upcoming Junior Rose Bowl were dashed Monday when it was announced that the winner of Saturday's Potato Bowl will be picked to host the Dec. 11 JRB.

Bakersfield City College and College of the Sequoias will clash at Bakersfield Saturday in the Potato Bowl. Both schools have posted 9-1 season marks this fall, as compared to the Owls' 9-1-1 final slate.

Citrus had hoped to win a bid to Pasadena following its convincing 24-0 rout of Santa Barbara City College in last Saturday's Mission Bowl, but the JRB selection committee decided to by-pass the Owls and Avocado Bowl winner Fullerton in favor of either Bakersfield or Sequoias.

Glenn Davis, game director and Director of Special Events for the sponsoring L.A. Times, made the announcement that the Potato Bowl will determine the California representative to the JRB.

Ellsworth College of Iowa Falls, Iowa has already been chosen as the Eastern school. Ellsworth posted a perfect 9-0 mark this fall.

"We are disappointed, no doubt about it," Citrus athletic director Ed Conly said Monday. "We we're so naive as to think something like this wasn't going to happen but we do feel we deserved to at least be considered.

"I think in retrospect that it really hurt us not to play Ventura in the Mission Bowl. If they had beaten Santa Barbara they would have been unbeaten going into the Mission Bowl and a win by us would have really impressed people. As it was, I guess beating Santa Barbara just wasn't enough.

"We are real proud of this year's team, it's just a shame they didn't get a better shot at the Junior Rose Bowl bid."

Bakersfield has appeared in the JRB on three prior occasions, 1953, 1959 and 1961. The JRB was abandoned for JCs after the 1966 bowl and not revived until this year, when the Times took over sponsorship of the event.

The tryouts will begin at 1 p.m. The Cheetahs are an AAU-sanctioned club.

Chaffey sets FB banquet

The Chaffey College football banquet will be held Thursday, Dec. 2 at the Chaffey cafeteria. The event will start at 7 p.m.

Guest speaker for the evening will be Marv Goux, defensive coordinator for the Rose-Bowl bound USC Trojans.

Tickets for the event are priced at $6 each. For further information and reservations, call the Chaffey athletic department at (714) 987-1737, ext. 298 or 352.

Quotes

"We were able to move the ball on the ground on them. That's what we wanted to do. Besides, it made the game go shorter." — Chicago guard Noah Jackson, after the Bears beat Green Bay 16-10 in six-degree weather with a wind that made it feel like 14 below zero.

Owls claim honors

Citrus College's Obie Graves has been named Outstanding Football Player of the Year in the Mission Conference. The 5-foot-10, 165-pounder was among the 14 members of the All-Conference First Team Offensive Team.

Besides Graves, the Owls had four other players on the First Team Offensive Team. Quarterback Dale Bunn, punter Gary McKenzie, tackle Steve Boe, and guard Frank Maggiore were all placed on the squad.

On defense, the Owls were again well represented. Citrus had four players on the First Team Defensive Team. Jim Escobedo, Gene Eslin, Robert Vannoy, and Marty Sarkissian all pulled down honors.

Graves, who is a runningback, had 1170 yards on 206 carries for an average of 5.7 yards in 10 games. He also rushed for 15 touchdowns and added one on a pass reception.

Citrus' football coach John Strycula was chosen as Coach of the Year in the Mission Conference.

Chaffey College had Dominic Licavoli and Keith Bolock on the First Team Offensive Team and Charles Moses on the top defensive squad.

"Selling's a Cinch in the Want Ads"

You've heard a sure thing described as a "lead pipe cinch". That's how newspaper readers feel about results they obtain from the Want Ads.

When you pick up the phone and dial our Classified department to sell your still valuable but not now used items, it's a cinch you are going to find buyers. Very often the articles will be sold on the first call. That's because people look to the Want Ads for good bargains in furniture, appliances, toys, bikes and trikes, sewing machines and musical instruments.

Realtors, automotive dealers and Business Services specialists find Classified a cinch when it comes to selling their goods and expertise.
